CENTERS ON CABINET

Death of Harding May Send Daugherty Back Into Private Life

(By United Press Leased Wire)
TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE,
Willard Hotel, Washington, Aug. 6.—President Coolidge conferred with John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican national committee, and William T. Butler, committeeman from Massachusetts at the temporary White House today while political gossipers at the national capitol forswore a new organization of control in the Republican party.

Adams announced after the conference that no political matters were discussed because Mr. Coolidge desired to avoid any reference to affairs of state during the period of mourning for President Harding.

President Coolidge quietly today began the construction of his "unofficial" cabinet.

After conferences with his most prominent friends within the Republican party, Mr. Coolidge—realizing the inevitable necessity for action—began the formation of the new organization which will aid him in formulating new policies.

Talks With Advisors

It was still emphasized, however, that no official step would be taken nor changes of any kind made until after the period of mourning for Mr. Harding. The funeral arrangements are still uppermost in the president's mind but the business of government must go on and Mr. Coolidge could not avoid the obligation of organizing his friends and advisors into an unofficial round table to give him their counsel in his great task.

Although the present regular cabinet members selected by Mr. Harding will continue, temporarily, at least, at their posts, the new chief magistrate will, like all presidents also have his own friends to advise him.

The movement gained headway in various conferences of leading Republicans who called at the presidential suite.

The political influence of Attorney General Daugherty has suffered an apparently insurmountable blow in the death of the president.

Blow For Daugherty

Daugherty's health is weak and he is in no condition to gather up the fragments of his organization. It is confidently expected here that he will resign his post and retire to private life.

William M. Butler, Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts, is being prominently mentioned as the leader of a new Coolidge faction. He is an attorney and close friend of Mr. Coolidge believe he will be appointed attorney general.

Then there is Frank Stearns, the Boston business man, who is already recognized as the power closest to the president. He is proprietor of a department store in Boston and has been Mr. Coolidge's biggest "booster" for the last ten years. It was Stearns who brought Mr. Coolidge out for governor and advised his campaign in his national election.

Stearns and his wife are in the suite next to the president on the third floor here.

They met the president in New York and undoubtedly will continue in Washington indefinitely.

Clark For Secretary

Stearns is assisted by Ben Felt, an advertising man of Boston, who is being mentioned by some now as a possible appointee to the post of presidential secretary. It is thought, however, that Edward T. Clark, now unofficially acting secretary, may continue.

James B. Reynolds, who was campaign manager for Mr. Coolidge in 1920 also is mentioned in the group of unofficial cabinetiers. He is vice-president of a Washington bank and lives here.

While Nation Mourns

CALVIN COOLIDGE, who has declined to discuss presidential policies or affairs of state while the nation is mourning for the late President Warren G. Harding. While political leaders clamor for an opportunity to discuss cabinet changes and aspirants to the nomination in the 1924 convention are making plans to round up the delegates, Coolidge is devoting practically all his time to arranging for the nation's last tribute to the departed executive.

COOLIDGE HELPS PHOTOGRAPHER IN RUSH FOR PHOTOS

TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE, Willard Hotel, Washington, Aug. 6.—After a casual acquaintance with Calvin Coolidge as vice-president for two and a half years, Washington today began to really "know" the man who has become President.

Generally regarded as cold and silent, Mr. Coolidge in the three days he has occupied the Presidential chair has begun to emerge from his shell and reveal himself as a "regular fellow."

He's not a "hail fellow well met;" he's not the boisterous kind—far from it. It's all a matter of getting under the New England reserve; once you do, you find a cordial friendliness all his own.

The United Press correspondent ducked under that barrier of reserve by acting as a photographer's assistant and penetrating the Presidential suite in the temporary White House set up in the New Willard hotel.

Shows Human Side

A photographer who had been trying to get a picture of the new President sent a plea through "Ted" Clark, the President's secretary. Despite the press of official business, Mr. Coolidge showed his human side by agreeing to sit for the late arrival. The reporter was to hold a newspaper opened wide on the shadowed side of the President's face as a "light kicker."

"Let's get busy, young man," said the President with awe-inspiring severity, as the photographer and his assistant entered. "I'll do anything if you do it quickly," he added, and a twinkle was noticeable in his clear blue eyes.

Taking courage, the photographer he wanted to "shoot" the President seated at a desk. The President glanced around the colonial paneled living room of the suite. There was no desk in sight. "Come on," he said, "we'll get the desk from the next room and drag it in here."

Bush Fires Threatening Great Water Shed Now Under Control

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Two forest fires which swept hundreds of acres of land over the week end, were reported gradually burning themselves out today.

The fire which has been raging for several days in Santa Ynez valley above Santa Barbara, devastating nearly 2000 acres of mountain brush land, is reported gradually burning itself out at the head of the canyon.

Further damage to the Santa Barbara water shed is not expected according to reports today by the several hundred men fighting the fire.

In Lytle canyon, a small fire has burned over 250 acres of brush land. Unless there is a change in the wind the fire will automatically burn itself out against a large break, it is reported.

About 200 men are fighting to control the blaze.

POLICE BALK 'HUMAN BOX' BURGLARS

Charges Suspects In Daring
Attempt to Secure
$500,000 Loot

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Stating that they had thwarted an attempt to rob the American Express company vaults at Pasadena of $500,000, police today arrested Jack Fuller, Al Burnham and Jack Clark, alleged members of a "human box" ring.

It is alleged that Charles Deschannu, who three years ago attempted to rob the Hollywood transfer company of thousands of dollars by concealing himself in a specially made trunk and having himself "stored" in the vault, was leader of the present gang.

He and a fifth member of the gang are now being sought by detectives. Following his discovery in the Hollywood office, he was sentenced to San Quentin and was released December 27.

The three under arrest are charged with making a "human box" out of a packing case. Deschannu concealed himself in this several days ago. The box was taken to the Los Angeles Transfer company and consigned to the American Express company at Pasadena where it was expected $500,000 loot in valuable stored there by wealthy Pasadenaans could be secured.

The box was equipped with padding, food, water, and had two cleverly concealed panels which opened from the inside and were not visible from the outside.

Two days before the box was stored, according to the police, the five men are alleged to have committed a clever holdup near El Segundo. Clark and Burnham, it is alleged, met two women and invited them to ride. At El Segundo, according to the complaints on file, a machine drove up containing Fuller, Deschannu and the alleged fifth confederate, Bob Gast. It is charged they posed as holdup men and robbed the women of $2,000 worth of jewels.

Two days later just after the box containing Deschannu was taken to the Los Angeles Transfer company, it is alleged, police arrested Burnham and Clark on suspicion of the El Segundo robbery.

When Gast and Fuller heard of the arrest of the other two it is alleged they rushed to the transfer company and had the box containing Deschannu sent back to their rendezvous.

Police arrived just too late at the rendezvous and Deschannu and Gast escaped, but later police arrested Fuller and re-arrested Burnham and Clark on the new conspiracy charges.

An intensive search is being conducted for Gast and Deschannu. The latter is alleged to be the "master mind" of the plot.

Charges Taxes Of Movie Stars Unpaid

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Clara Kimball Young, Oliver Morosco, Jack Pickford and Edwin Carewe were sued today by United States Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell for the recovery of unpaid income taxes.

The government alleged that Miss Young owes $57,838.53 for unpaid taxes in 1918, 1919 and 1920. Three tax liens were filed.

Oliver Morosco is alleged to owe $9137 for 1916 and 1917. Carewe is alleged to owe $533, due from 1917, and Jack Pickford $87.18 from 1917.

WOULD LIMIT PRESIDENTS TO ONE TERM

Senator Cummins Declares Responsibilities Greater Than One Man Can Stand.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—A constitutional amendment limiting presidents of the United States to one term was urged here today by Senator Albert B. Cummins, Iowa, who declared the "responsibilities and strain of the office are greater than one man can stand."

Cummins said that if President Coolidge adopts the Harding policies there will be no extra session of congress. He added that he knew personally that Mr. Harding had decided against such a move.

BROTHER OF VICTIM IS IN CELL

Would Link Broken Bottle
With Uncanny Wreck
Fatal to L. B. Man

With an inquest over the body of Bert Knapp, 52, of Long Beach, set for 4 p. m. today to investigate an automobile accident on Newport boulevard in which Knapp lost his life last night, the authorities were holding Frank Knapp, 43, brother of the dead man and driver of the car that was wrecked in a fatal plunge off the boulevard.

A conference was to be held today between Sheriff Sam Jernigan and District Attorney A. P. Nelson with reference to the possible filing of charges against Knapp, who is confined to the county hospital with a dislocated shoulder, in the event that the inquest develops evidence to substantiate rumors reaching the sheriff's office that the Knapps were intoxicated at the time of the wreck.

Claim Fast Speed

Declared to have been traveling toward Santa Ana at a high rate of speed, Knapp's car, containing only the two brothers, was said to have crashed into another machine that was parked, on the opposite side with lights burning, entirely off the pavement, and then to have plunged down a bank and overturned, pinning the brothers beneath.

This version of the accident was given to the sheriff's office by J. W. Sauer, ofustin, said to have been the only eyewitness to the accident, which occurred at a point near the junction of the highway with the Palisades road. Sauer was driving toward the beach and, he said, was startled to see the death car dart suddenly across his path.

Leave Car Before Crash

The car standing in the path of Knapp's machine belonged to J. R. Fischer, 42, West Fourth Street, Santa Ana. Fischer, accompanied by Lee Crech, 510 West Fourth street, had been traveling toward the beach when the car's gas supply gave out. Pulling to one side of the highway, they started on foot for gas and were absent when the crash occurred. Fischer's car was whirled completely around by the impact of the collision and was hurled some distance.

Knapp's car went over the five-foot embankment at that point and inverted itself near the foot of the railway embankment that parallels the highway.

Patient Unruly

Sauer, with the aid of Chester Baxter and Sam Suddaby, Santa Ana men, who arrived almost immediately, rescued the Knapp brothers from beneath their car.

A passing motorist took the injured to the Community hospital at Santa Ana. Then the three men remained to straighten out traffic, which soon congested on both sides of the wreck, until Sheriff Jernigan arrived.

With his chest crushed, Bert Knapp was removed from the Community hospital to the county hospital, where he died at about 11 p. m. Meanwhile, Frank Knapp, at the Community hospital, was said by attendants to have been an unruly patient, tearing off his

Legion Men to Sound Taps For President

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 6.—Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, today ordered Legion posts in every city and town to sound taps as the late President Harding's body is lowered into the grave at Marion Friday.

The action was taken on suggestion of the Washington News. Bolles also urged all citizens to observe a five minute period of silence.

COOLIDGE TO VISIT OHIO FOR SERVICE

New Chief Executive and Wife
Will Be Among High Officials at Harding Burial.

MARION, O., Aug. 6.—President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge will be among the high officials in Marion this week to pay a final tribute to the memory of Warren G. Harding.

Colonel F. P. Lahn of the general staff, Washington, is here with blanket orders from President Coolidge to take charge of the official end of arrangements and make any plans for the funeral Mrs. Harding may desire.

National guard troops already are patrolling Marion cemetery where Mr. Harding is to be laid to rest and the home of his father, Dr. George T. Harding, where funeral service is to be held.

Other state troops are en route here from summer training camps.

The president will leave the temporary White House about 1 o'clock accompanied by his military aide, Colonel C. O. Sherrill, to meet the funeral train, which is due to arrive here at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Following the president will be two automobiles, one bearing Senator Cummins of Iowa, president pro tem of the senate and representing the congress, and the other Chief Justice Taft representing the judiciary of the nation.

The remains will rest in the crystal East room of the White House from the time of arrival until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

While the body of the president lies in the White House there will be placed on the bier one wreath by Mrs. Harding, one by President and Mrs. Coolidge, one for the supreme court by Justice Taft; one by Senators Cummins, president pro tempore of the senate, and Speaker Gillett of the house and from the heads of the foreign and state governments only.

On the arrival of the funeral train Mrs. Harding and such of the party as she may designate will go at once to the White House apart from the funeral procession which will move by the slow dead march up historic Pennsylvania avenue.

Mrs. Coolidge and the wives of the cabinet members will be at the White House to meet Mrs. Harding when she arrives at the executive mansion.

hopes that Mrs. Harding will allow the townsfolk, who knew Warren Harding from boyhood to view his mortal remains.

The courthouse, a humble building in the center of town, already is being draped for the occasion.

Marion is guarding the places made sacred by Warren Harding's death-like a heart broken father holding close to his heart some memory of a son who has passed away.

Silent sentries patrol the home of Dr. George T. Harding, where the funeral is to be held, against seekers of souvenirs and a similar guard is on duty at Marion cemetery.

Workers were busy this morning in an effort to repair the front of Dr. Harding's home in time for a funeral.

KEEP LONG VIGIL AT TRACKS

DEATH CAR MASS OF FLORAL OFFERINGS

Widow of Late President
Continues to Hold Up
Under Strain

ABOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S FUNERAL TRAIN, CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Aug. 6.—The great heart of the middlewest pulsed in sympathy and sorrow today as the train bearing home the body of the late President Harding flashed by countless small stations in Iowa.

All through the night and day as the train maintained terrific speed on its way across the state, people stood along the route. There was not an hour that was not marked thus by groups of men, women and children.

If ever America's heart was laid bare, it has been in the days of this first trans-continental funeral of its kind.

Pass Crowds in Night

People who stay up all night to stand at attention as a train streaks by at sixty miles an hour are animated by more than mere curiosity. It was nearly 3 a. m. when the train got into Omaha, Neb., but there was a vast throng there, stretching away in the dim shadows of the night. And then, as the train crossed into Iowa, there were smaller groups, whose faces swept by in a blur as the train, trying to make up lost time, made the rails fairly hum with its speed.

Members of the party were unable to sleep because of the train's speed. Remembering yesterday's near wreck at Chappell, Neb., they feared some mishap. But nothing happened, except the constant passing of those blurred groups of faces in the light of little roadside stations; blurred faces and a flash of color as the flag was passed.

Farmers Pay Tribute

And so as daylight came they gathered in ever increasing numbers, at Boone, Ames, Marshalltown, Tama and at little places in between where the train rushed past so rapidly that the name of the station was indistinguishable.

Farmers paused in their fields and took off their broad straw hats with reverent gestures. Tomorrow they may find it necessary to criticize the government but today the dead President was passing by.

The train is now a little behind schedule in spite of every effort to catch up.

It is just like life—the passing of this train. It pulls into a station and pauses a few minutes; new faces are seen and then it goes on to other towns and other faces, pushing always restlessly toward that final goal which, for the silent figure in the flower laden car, typifies rest.

Widow Shows Suffering.

A chief concern of those who are accompanying the president's remains to Washington for the funeral services Wednesday was that Mrs. Harding, wan and visibly aged from her suffering and her almost super-human efforts not to give way, may be given strength to carry on to the finish as she has so bravely begun.

The remarkable woman who sits for long hours beside the bier in the rear compartment rested a little better Sunday, despite the prolonged strain, and her first thoughts when she came from silent contemplation in the funeral coach were for the comfort of others in the party. She sent personal inquiries to several newspaper men about colds they contracted in San Francisco, telling them to take care of themselves and rest while on the train.

Each silent crowd beside the railroad brings a fresh reminder of the nation's loss and must be an additional pang of sorrow for the widow. But when she speaks of this at all, it is with expressions of gratitude for the American people's thoughts.

"I can't ever tell these people how they have helped me and upheld me in this hour," Mrs. Harding said, her hand on a stack of telegrams that came pouring in at every station.

It is her inordinate pride in her

Harding's Body to Go to Final Rest Through Rose Stren Lane

MARION, O., Aug. 6.—A rose strewn lane of sorrow through which the funeral procession of the late President Harding will pass from the home of his aged father on Center street to the little green cemetery two miles from town, was planned today as a fitting tribute to Marion's fondest memory.

The entire route is to be draped in sombre black and white, the committee in charge announced.

Tentative plans, dependent on Mrs. Harding's wishes, call for having the body of the late president lie in state at the Marion county courthouse from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Thursday, the day before the funeral.

The little town today went about its work of preparing for the thousands who will come for the funeral with strong

NEW EXECUTIVE PUTS BAN ON POLITICIANS

of Daugherty now acting as attorney-general, might be selected by Coolidge for the position, is being discussed. Daugherty, if permitted to name his successor, would choose Seymour, who had been slated for the post before Mr. Harding died.

Mr. Coolidge may be a candidate for re-election. Pleasing Daugherty by the appointment of Seymour might help him then when the Ohio delegates go to the national Republican convention.

There was also talk concerning the possible resignation of John T. Adams, as chairman of the national Republican committee. One of Mr. Coolidge's friends—Reynolds, according to gossip, might be appointed to that post.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, chatted with Mr. Coolidge for twenty minutes today on labor questions in general but the threat of anthracite coal strike was not mentioned. The labor chief made an engagement to see the President in September sometime and place the labor program before him.

Gompers said Mr. Coolidge informed him that his "mind is open" on the question of a special session of congress.

John Adams, chairman of the national Republican committee, called after Gompers and immediately went into conference with the President.

But while the talk went on under the surface, all official matters of state were at a standstill awaiting the arrival of the body of the president at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Preparations have been concluded at the White House for the placing of the body of the departed president in the East room as soon as it arrives. There it will be viewed by immediate friends of the family. The state funeral will be held on Wednesday.

It has been Mr. Coolidge's express order that all official business possible wait over Mr. Harding's funeral.

The miners and operators thus far have been unable to reach an agreement on the new wage contract which must be ready by September to prevent a strike. It is thought the president will take strong action if a strike is called.

When he came to Washington from Vermont Mr. Coolidge was strongly against summoning an extra session of congress. Some of the leaders in the Republican ranks, however, believe December too late for convening of the national legislature.

The president has remained quietly in his suite most of the time since he has been here. His first public appearance was at church Sunday but he did not go out the rest of the day. He and Mrs. Coolidge received many of their friends and officials of state at the temporary White House in the hotel here.

Fraser will be the accompanist of the evening. The instrumental numbers will be given by Mrs. Ollimae Enlow Matthews, violinist, and Mrs. Violet Nedderman and Miss Mabel Krause, pianists. These artists should bring every receiving set in Orange county into action this evening.

HUGE THROGS LINE DEATH TRAIN ROUTE

dead husband and achievements of his life time that keeps Mrs. Harding going.

At several Iowa points the throngs along the route were so dense that hundreds could not catch even a glimpse of the flower strewn compartment containing the president's casket. Everywhere along the line, hour by hour, it is the same story—the American people lining the steel highway along which the last journey of President Harding is being run.

Today the train was racing to make up a little time lost through a near mishap and to reach the home state of the late executive by nightfall.

A tire slipped from the forward driving wheel of the big locomotive that was drawing the funeral special as it was rolling slowly through Chappell, Neb., Sunday. Had the train been traveling at full speed a serious accident might have followed. As it was an engine from another train was commandeered and the trip resumed with but a half hour lost.

The people of Illinois, as well as those of Iowa, have the opportunity to pay their tribute today. The train is due at Chicago where a tremendous crowd is expected to be gathered for a few moments of tribute, at 3:30 p. m.

One of the most remarkable gatherings of all those along the first half of the journey was at Omaha early today. Although the special was reported behind time as a result of the incident at Chappell, many thousands stood in the early hour awaiting its arrival. On the station platform were heaped high scores of wreaths and floral tributes to President Harding. In the darkness, along the tracks for a mile in either direction from the station stood the massed, waiting throngs.

Silence Grips Crowd.

When the funeral special finally came like a sable ghost out of the west and passed, its drivers grinding more and more slowly between the long ranks, an absolute silence gripped the crowd.

When the train reaches Chicago it will be taken over the Belt line to the Baltimore and Ohio and will be off on its fast run through to the capital. Its route will lie through Gary and St. Joseph, Ind., Des Moines, Iowa, Akron and Youngstown, Ohio; New Castle Junction, Laughlin Junction near Pittsburgh, and Connellsville, Pa.; Harper's Ferry, W. Va., and thence to Washington. Tonight it will be crossing the late president's home state.

WILL CONFER WITH WIDOW ON FUNERAL

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—A special train, bearing Dr. Carl Sawyer and Dr. George T. Harding, brother of the late President, left here today over the Chicago and Northwestern railroad to meet the eastward speeding funeral train. Sawyer and Harding will meet Mrs. Harding at Sterling, Ill., and consult with her regarding details of the funeral at Marion, Ohio, next Friday.

SEVEN DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENTS IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Seven persons were killed in automobile accidents in the San Francisco bay region over the week end. More than a score were injured, one of them fatally. Five persons were instantly killed when a loaded automobile was struck by a speeding passenger train.

A sixth died when an automobile broke from control and ran away, and the seventh perished when a car backed over an embankment.

WILSON TO TAKE PART IN CAPITAL SERVICES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Former President Wilson wrote a letter to President Coolidge today stating he "would esteem it an honor" to take part in the funeral procession of President Harding. "I sincerely grieve as you do over the death of President Harding, who had undoubtedly won the esteem of the whole nation by his honorable and conscientious conduct in office," Mr. Wilson said.

The letter was given out at the temporary White House along with the letter Mr. Coolidge forwarded to Mr. Wilson.

Previously there had been some doubt as to whether Mr. Wilson would attend, an announcement having stated that his health probably would not permit him.

FUGITIVE BACK IN JAIL FACING ARSON PLAIN

F. B. Padilla, alleged incendiary, awaiting trial in the superior court here on a charge of arson, was back in the county jail today.

That he would remain there, was the intention of Sheriff Sam Jernigan, whose deputies captured Padilla here late Saturday, thus ending the Mexican's short-lived dash for liberty from the county hospital.

Taking advantage of his transfer from the jail to the hospital for medical treatment, Padilla escaped Thursday night.

Saturday morning, he was sighted along the railroad yards in this city by a former fellow prisoner. The latter, recently given probation by the court, took advantage of this opportunity to repay official leniency. He notified the sheriff's office and a squad of officers including Under-sheriff French, Jailor Moncrief, and Deputies Willson, Elliott, Kyan and Bates hurried to the scene.

The yards carefully were searched, the hunt continuing until mid-afternoon, when Padilla was discovered in a shed near Lincoln and Stafford streets. He made no resistance to capture.

Later, he told his jailer that the sight of the latter's car, with which the Mexican was familiar, which had been parked in the street near his hiding place, deterred him from making a dash from the vicinity, while the posse was searching elsewhere.

Several times Padilla ventured from the shed into the street, but seeing the rear of the car and believing Moncrief to be in it, he retreated to his hiding place, Padilla said. The Mexican was much chagrined when he learned that the car had not been occupied.

Lodge Picnic Is Set For Later Date Due To President's Death

In order that Santa Ana and Orange county Elks may be free to pay full tribute to the memory of their departed brother, Warren G. Harding, the annual barbecue and picnic of Santa Ana lodge No. 794, scheduled for Friday, August 10, at Orange county park, has been postponed until Friday, August 24, Secretary W. W. Wasser announced here today.

"Inasmuch as the nation is mourning the passing of our President and brother," Wasser said, "it was felt that our picnic and outdoor entertainment should be postponed. Members of the Santa Ana lodge, who have made reservations for the barbecue, will be notified by mail of the change in plans."

Wasser said an excellent program will be arranged for the several hundred Elks and the members of their families who are expected to attend the picnic.

S. A. WOMEN WAR ON SHORT SKIRT STYLE RULING FROM PARIS

The feminine world listened today to the edict from god of fashion enthroned in Paris and this is what it heard:

"Skirts reaching just below the knee will be a feature of the new fashions which will be exhibited to American buyers for the first time this week."

"And the women started talking, and this is what they said:

"We don't want short skirts again."

"We won't have short skirts again."

But the little bird, listening in, remembered that a few years ago there was just such emphatic hostility toward the report that the long skirt would be worn.

Say Long Skirt Doomed

And then Paris blames the American women, for Dressmaker Chanel, who is regarded as a leader of fashion, says that the American women's efforts to re-establish the long skirt is doomed.

Jenny, another czar of style, also declares that the long skirt must go.

"Freedom," is full skirt which has gained popularity.

attractive than a short, tight skirt."

Mrs. John Clarkson, president of the Ebell club, said:

"I am not an extremist and do not like either the very long or the very short skirt, but I believe the American women should and will wear a medium length skirt which will be at once attractive and modest."

Mrs. C. D. Holmes declared:

"I shall be very sorry to see the short skirts return. I like them long. I think a skirt 6 or 8 inches from the ground is just right."

Mrs. W. L. Deimling said: "No matter what Paris decrees, the American women are always conservative. Although we follow Paris styles in general, we always modify them. When Paris says skirts must be 24 inches from the floor we make them 18. When Paris orders skirts that trail on the ground we make them ankle length."

Two Santa Ana young women posed to show contrast between long and short skirts. At left, Miss Alice Mateer, in abbreviated style which local women declare, shall not return to favor. At right, Miss Beatrice Cartwright, in the long, graceful skirt which has gained popularity.

But here's what Santa Ana thinks and the styles that Santa Ana women want are pretty likely to be worn in Santa Ana:

"I hope long skirts stay in," said Miss Alice Mateer, who is enrolling as a student at the University of California this month.

"I don't like short skirts and I surely hope we won't have to wear them," was the earnest hope of Miss Beatrice Cartwright, student at the University of Southern California.

Ollimae Enlow Matthews, popular violinist, said:

"I think the ankle length skirt we have now is the most graceful I have ever seen. Why should we change to a less graceful style when we have that? I do hope long skirts will not give way to very short ones. Nothing is less attractive than a short, tight skirt."

Mrs. John Clarkson, president of the Ebell club, said:

"I am not an extremist and do not like either the very long or the very short skirt, but I believe the American women should and will wear a medium length skirt which will be at once attractive and modest."

Mrs. C. D. Holmes declared:

MISSOURI FOLK PLAN CLEMONS MEMORIAL

FLORIDA, Mo., Aug. 6.—A literary shrine to America's greatest humorist, even more unique and magnificent than the one dedicated to William Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon!

Such is the ambitious plan now being worked out by interested Missourians who expect, within two years, to establish a memorial park to Samuel Longhorne Clemens, most familiarly known as Mark Twain.

Florida—this little village seven miles from a railroad, located in northeastern Missouri where Twain was born and where he spent many of his boyhood days—is to be its location.

Swells With Pride

Once a thriving river town on the upper Mississippi, Florida has degenerated into a little country village of some 500 souls—due to the coming of the railroads. But with it all Florida swells with pride over the conspicuous place it occupies in history. An air of romance pervades the township and its outlying territory.

Credit for starting the movement must be divided among four persons—M. A. (Dad) Violet, owner of the home in which Twain was born; Frank B. Lamson, secretary of Chamber of Commerce at Moberly, Mo.; H. J. Blanton, publisher of the Monroe County Appeal at Paris, Mo., and Lamson's 12-year-old daughter, Ruth.

With "Dad" Violet the idea ever had been an obsession. He rescued the Twain birthplace from a wrecking crew, had it moved across the street on his own property and filled it with furnishings typical of the period of Twain's boyhood.

Draws Many Tourists

More than 5000 tourists from every state in the Union visited the home during 1922. Ruth Lamson was one of them. She interested her father in the home. He immediately got in touch with Editor Blanto at Paris, and "Dad" Violet.

Violet told of having refused $3000 from persons who wished to returned Wednesday from a month's stay in Idyllwild.

Mrs. Harry Brookbank is spending a few days at Catalina.

Miss Louise Artz is enjoying a pleasant outing at Forest Home with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Allen and children, Kathaleen, Lorna and Lou Ellen.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. S. McDougall, Mrs. Fred Preble, son, and daughter, Mrs. Ralph Bells of Orangethorpe motored to Hollywood Monday to see "The Covered Wagon."

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Terry and children, Caroline and Jean, returned Wednesday from a month's stay at Idyllwild.

The Rev. W. S. McDougall spent Friday in Los Angeles.

KANSAS GIRL IS COUNTY OFFICER

TUSTIN, Aug. 6.—Miss Mabel Cornick of Anthony, Kans., who has been making her home in Tustin for the past few months, has accepted a position as an assistant in the probation office at the court house in Santa Ana. This is a new government position that was created at the last session of the legislature, as the rapid growth of the probation office in the past year has made it necessary to employ another assistant. Miss Cornick will commence work the sixteenth of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Stanley and daughters, Helen and Marian, and Mr. Stanley's brother, H. B. Stanley, who with his family have recently moved to Tustin, motored to Los Angeles last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bowman, Frances, Clarence and Miss Edith Rinard attended "The Covered Wagon" at Hollywood last Sunday.

MYSTERY AUTO CRASH DRIVER TO BE SUED

Complaint against the unidentified driver of an automobile that figured in a collision on the state highway, twenty miles south of San Juan Capistrano, will be filed it was said, by C. E. Webb of Long Beach, who, with Mrs. Webb, registered today at the Hotel Rossmore here. Mrs. Webb is recovering from injuries sustained in the accident.

Webb reported the accident to the local authorities today and stated his intention of filing charges of reckless driving against the other driver, who, Webb said, refused to give his name. Inasmuch as the accident took place in San Diego county, the complaint could not be filed here.

Webb said that the collision took place last night while he was traveling at a rate of twenty-five miles an hour, while the other car was speeding, Webb said.

SAY 'MYSTERY' PROMOTER HAS VAST MEANS

Indicating that R. C. Patterson has substantial finances, Clyde Bishop, attorney, today announced that Patterson and his wife each are investing $100,000 in the enterprise Patterson is developing for location of a wholesale lumberyard at Newport Beach.

At the same time, Bishop stated that Santa Ana men associated with Patterson have sufficient financial backing to accomplish any enterprise they may undertake.

The attorney, however, declined to disclose the names of the Santa Ana men identified with the proposed organization of a corporation, with a capitalization of around half a million dollars.

"It would be highly improper to reveal at this time local interest supporting Patterson," Bishop said. "No doubt, the local interests will

Direct Money Transfer Service Is Inaugurated

Manager F. E. Warner of the Western Union Telegraph company announces an arrangement, effective June 1, whereby cabled money transfers to France will be paid in American funds at the option of the sender. In other words if, say $100, is cabled via Western Union to Paris, the amount will be paid at destination either in United States currency or in francs, according to the choice of the remitter.

The particular value of this arrangement is that it eliminates questions of exchange and places the payee in a position to take full advantage of the premium on American currency, Warner said. It also involves refund of the full amount deposited in the case of non-payment, which is another great advantage in the case of a declining foreign currency, he added.

"The Western Union Telegraph company believes that the establishment of a direct money transfer service to France on the dollar basis will be a considerable convenience to people desiring to send money cheaply, quickly, safely and directly to their friends or relatives in that country," Warner declared.

BEACH COUNCIL TO BAN PAVED ST. CUTTING

Thomas W. Simmons, recently granted a franchise for operation of an oil line between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach, will not be given the privilege of tearing up paved streets, if the city council of Newport Beach follows the advice of City Attorney Clyde Bishop, it was learned here today.

Bishop said he expected to present to the city council tonight an ordinance granting the franchise but with the provision that Simmons shall not cut into any paved street without first obtaining the permission of the city council of which four members must vote in the affirmative.

Bishop pointed out that it is now possible for the line to be constructed without cutting into the new paved roads of the beach city. In the future it may be necessary to lay lines that will necessitate breaking into the pavement, but Bishop said that he proposed protecting the city to the extent of requiring granting of permission before such cuts are made.

It is more or less a radical departure from franchise policies, it was pointed out, for usually a franchise conveys the right to lay lines in streets at the pleasure of the holder of the franchise and without necessity of a special permit.

Prisoner Boasts Of 5 Red Haired Wives

Wife No. 3 was the plaintiff in the other case. "I intend to plead guilty," said Kline. "What's the use of doing anything else? The worst they can do to me is keep me in jail. I've been there before."

BUSINESS HOUSES IN ORANGE CHECKED

ORANGE, Aug. 6.—A check up of licensed business houses in Orange was being made Saturday by City Marshall M. F. Jemison for the purpose of comparison. According to the marshal, the city is trying to find out just what increase in the number of business establishments in Orange this year will show over 1922.

"In addition there are some places wherein there are housed two or three businesses," he said. That there has been a substantial increase in the number of establishments over 1922, was the opinion of the marshal.

Patterson has been granted by the city council a ten year lease of the municipal wharf at Newport Beach, the lease carrying the right to unload cargoes of lumber.

Ground for the wholesale yard has been leased, according to Bishop. Its location, however, Bishop said he did not know.

The attorney said articles of incorporation had not been prepared and that the organization still was in the preliminary stages. It was sufficiently advanced, however, he said, to warrant the definite statement that Newport Beach soon would again become a prominent lumber receiving port.

2 Get 6-Months Jail Terms In Pistol Cases

Sentences of six months each in the county jail were pronounced today by Justice J. B. Cox in the cases of Ralph Munoz of Los Alamitos and Manuel Acosta of El Modena, both charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Munoz, it was said, was found to be encumbered with two pistols when Constable Joe Ryan and other officers swooped down upon a Los Alamitos establishment last night. Other Mexicans asserted to have been present succeeded in scurrying away.

Acosta was arrested by Deputy Constable G. M. Bartley at El Modena. Bartley claimed to have relieved Acosta of a dangerous appearing "slug" or "black jack."

2004 Ex-Service Men Exempt from Taxation

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 6.—Two thousand four ex-service men were granted exemption from taxation in Kern county this year, according to figures given out by Tom F. Burke, county assessor. Due to the fact that more ex-service men are becoming land holders and that navy men granted conditional leases have now their discharge papers with the end of their four-year enlistment periods, the number is becoming greater each year, Burke said.

(BY A COMRADE)

The memorial service picnic, for our deceased President, Warren G.
Harding, held at Orange county park, under the Spanish War Veterans' Tree, by the members of Calumet Camp No. 26 and Calumet
Auxiliary No. 39, was a pronounced success and the consensus of opinion was that we should make the picnic an annual affair. Many of the high officers of both patriotic orders were in attendance, also other visitors from Los Angeles,
Long Beach, San Bernardino, Pomona, Huntington Park, Richfield,
Fullerton, Anaheim, Santa Ana,
Orange, and Costa Mesa.Adjutant Charles E. Dixon, being the ranking officer of the camp present, acted as presiding officer of the meeting. He called upon Department Commander Tom C. Galbraith to give the welcoming speech to the assemblage. Among the things
"Our Tom" spoke of was the perfecting of a new order to take in all the orders composed of men who had followed Old Glory. This order is to be arranged in degrees:
1st, all veterans; 2nd, veterans having overseas service; and third, disabled veterans. The department commander said that if it were organized, he would favor a 4th degree to be composed of all volunteers. He also warned the camps of Southern California against any one claiming to represent what is called "The County Council."Department President Anna Jesmire, then addressed the meeting and was followed by Department
Junior Vice President Lizzie H.
Crapo, who read a poem called "The Boys of '98."Commander G. L. Gregory, of Rollins-Noble camp, of San Bernardino, then spoke to the meeting. He stated that the Spanish-American soldier was 100 per cent volunteer and that it had taught the U. S. army two important lessons: First, sanitation; and second, transportation of soldiers and supplies. He extended all present an invitation to attend a picnic to be given by the San Bernardino, Riverside and Redlands camps, at Fairmount Park, in Riverside, on Labor Day, next month.Major S. M. Kerns, of Long Beach, told the comrades and sisters, in speech, that Gregory was a second William Jennings Bryan.
He also appealed to the members present to aid and assist in encouraging the young men of today to join the U. S. army, because, said he, "there are more discharged than are joining the colors."Past Department Commander John T. Curtin, then delivered the memorial address in which he eulogized the departed President.
He declared that Warren G. Harding had been a Republican, "without an apology" and that he himself was that kind of a Republican.Past Commander W. H. Weber, of Admiral Glass Camp No. 36, of Los Angeles, announced a dance to be given for the benefit of the drill team, at Los Angeles, on September 1.Past Commander L. J. Amman, also of Admiral Glass Camp, and a lieutenant of police in Los Angeles, told a comic story of a farmer and the agent of a county fair.
Officer of the Day John McCoy, of Colton, a member of the San Bernardino camp, issued a challenge to all fat comrades who weighed over 200 pounds to run him a foot race at the Labor Day picnic at Fairmount Park, Riverside. He claimed that Commanders Berry, of Covina, and Lyter, of Pomona, have already accepted his challenge and he wanted other competitors. Chas.
E. Dixon and "Big Dan" Mears, of Santa Ana, also accepted the challenge.C. E. LeFevre, commander of Roosevelt Camp No. 9, of Los Angeles, spoke for the largest camp of U. S. W. V. in the world.Comrade M. B. Card, of Wm. G.
Schreiber Camp, then spoke for Pomona, and Mrs. S. M. Kerns invited all to attend an open meeting to be held at Long Beach, next Saturday evening, on the third floor of the new city hall.Mrs. Josephine Galbraith, the "Mother" of Calumet Auxiliary, responded on behalf of the Auxiliary.
Captain J. D. Jones responded to a call for remarks from Calumet
Camp. He eulogized the President from a Democratic standpoint and said that when a man died of whom everyone said was a good man he had not lived in vain and from that point of view the President was a good man.Comrade Donnelly, of Anaheim, sang a patriotic song.A vote of thanks was given to Hill's Hardware company and the Excelsior Creamery company, for lending utensils and to a friend of the Spanish War Veterans who presented the committee with a hundred pounds of ice.Before the speaking there was a
"Pot Luck" dinner, with coffee, punch and ice cream as accessories.
There was potato salad, Spanish beans, meat loaf, fried chicken, many kinds of cake and pies and there was plenty for all of the large crowd present."Bob" Show, of the Santiago Ranger station, paid a visit and exchanged a few "yarns" with several of the comrades that he knew.
Come and see us again Bob.Several pictures were taken by Mrs. Chas. E. Chatlain. First, the auxiliary members; second, the comrades present; third, the department officers; and fourth, of the entire assemblage.Many thanks are due to the untiring efforts of the members of the Auxiliary Tea and especially to its committee composed of Bertha N.
Dixon, Nannie H. Reed and Marie Mears. The two acceptors of the challenge for the fat men's race with Comrade Hardin T. Reed composed the working force of the male members assisting the tea's committee.Cretonne Frocks

Indians than any other man, died

In Germany Proves Interesting SportBERLIN, Aug. 6.—Germany has developed a new indoor sport—figuring out what wonderful things one could buy before the war with the same amount of marks one lays out for trivialities today.For instance when the German today pays out 57,000 marks to have his suit pressed he has a lot of fun figuring out that since he could buy a complete suit before the war for 70 marks, the 57,000 marks which he spends for cleaning would have brought him 814
new suits in the olden days.The cost of a pencil today equals prewar cost of the furnishing a complete living-room, bed-room with two beds and well-equipped kitchen. The price of a little box of matches today equals the pre-war price of ten pairs of good shoes. A cigarette equals the price of a good piano, and the single individual little match with which a German lights his cigar costs as much today in paper marks as a pre-war pound of meat and a pound of butter.Every time a German eats a cherry he does so with the realization that "there goes a 50-mark note."

LOCAL CHURCH TENDERS WORD OF SYMPATHY

When Mrs. Warren G. Harding reaches Washington, D. C., tomorrow, she will receive a telegram conveying the sympathy and regrets of the First Baptist church of this city in the death of the President. Such a resolution was adopted during the church services yesterday morning.

The resolution was the expression of the congregation as citizens and as members of the church denomination with which the late President was identified.

"The man who always before making an address, or accepting a responsibility, paused in prayer, was a safe man in which to trust the destinies of our nation," said the Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor, in brief reference to the death of the chief executive. "His death is a loss to the republic and to our church."

The Rev. Mr. Russell said the President had been extended an invitation to worship at the local church upon his contemplated visit to his sister there.

COUNTIES' WATER MEETING IS FIXED

According to information reaching here today, the board of supervisors of Riverside and San Bernardino counties will be here tomorrow afternoon to confer with the local board on water conservation plans, for Barton Flats, during the coming year.

The conference was scheduled for last Tuesday, but was deferred because the visiting boards were unable to be here.

The meeting will have to do with providing funds for continuing work at Barton Flats, San Bernardino mountains, for diverting waste waters from mountain-side streams to flat grounds.

It was said that water spread last year on the flats later was reflected in an increased flow in Santa Ana River. Last year the three boards appropriated $2000 each. The Orange county board already has gone on record as favoring an increase in the appropriation to $5000 by each county.

'JIM CROW' THEATER RULE IS CHALLENGED IN $7000 SUIT HERE

Says He and Spanish Wife Ousted From Local Play-house First Floor

On a theater segregate its patrons, according to race or color, or in any other way—without making itself liable?

In other words, is the asserted practice followed by some theaters of restricting the privilege of lower floor seats to the white race only, with other races required to sit in the balcony, legitimate? Can such a rule be enforced?

The interesting question has been raised in Santa Ana for the courts to decide.

For asserted humiliation caused W. F. Carr and his pretty Spanish wife, Mary Carr, 26, of El Modena, when they were refused, as they claim, admission to the lower floor of a local theater and were directed to seats in the balcony, said to be reserved for "Spanish, Mexican, negro and Japanese races only," the Carrs today filed damage suits, aggregating $7,000, against the owner and the manager of the theater.

Say Arrest Sought
The action, in which E. E. Walker, owner, and Walter Adams, manager of the theater, each are sued for $1,000 actual and $2,500 exemplary damages, is the first to be filed in local courts under the state law which was interpreted to guarantee equal rights of all persons, regardless of race or color, to the accommodations of any public place, Attorney Otto Jacobs, representing Mr. and Mrs. Carr, said.

The Carrs alleged they not only were refused seats on the lower floor, much to their humiliation and mental anguish, but that, also, when they protested against the asserted order to find seats in the balcony, Manager Adams escorted them to local police headquarters and sought to have them arrested.

When the circumstances of the case were made known, the police refused to take action, according to the Carrs.

Claim Money Is Kept
The alleged incident was said to have taken place Saturday evening, July 28. The Carrs, who stated that they frequently had been attending the same theater for months and occupying seats on the lower floor without question, claimed to have been much surprised, as well as embarrassed, by the unlooked-for asserted challenge. Their protests, however, only resulted in their ejection and the asserted complaint to the police, they said.

Their admission money was not returned to them, they set forth. Tickets of the theater were said to bear the printed notice that the theater management reserves the right to reject any patrons upon the refunding of admission charges. Even that, however, would not prevent prosecution under the state law, according to Attorney Jacobs.

LIGHTING ISSUE DUE FOR FINAL DISPOSITION

Whether plans for construction of ornamental lighting system on West Fourth and on West and East Fifth streets will proceed is scheduled for settlement by the city council at its regular meeting tonight. Definite disposition of the proposition was postponed last Monday night.

Petitions originally were presented for the creation of districts for installation of the systems. The issue became clouded later when a protest was filed by property owners should the cost of maintenance be charged against the property abutting the streets.

It was pointed out that whatever action the council takes tonight probably will indicate its future course on the proposal to divide the city into four light assessment districts for the purpose of charging maintenance costs.

Discussion of the four-district plan at sessions of the city solons has indicated a majority in favor of the method, but as yet a test vote never has been taken.

Award of the contracts for supplying the city with fire hose and a fire pump engine was postponed three weeks ago to tonight. Absence of Councilman Charles H. Chapman will necessitate continuance for another week, it was thought, as four members are in a deadlock on the award of the fire engine contract. Mayor John W. Tubbs and C. L. Killen favor the Seagrave equipment, as evidenced by their vote on a motion to award the contract to the Seagrave company. George McPhee and Nat Neff opposed the motion, without revealing the equipment they prefer.

Oil City Man Knifed In Asserted Affray

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—Stabbed over the left lung late yesterday in an asserted brawl, N. Brown was in a serious condition at his home this morning, suffering from loss of blood. A physician who took several stitches in the wound stated that the point of the knife might have pierced the lung. Brown was bleeding at the mouth. The affray took place in the back yard of a Third street rooming house.

Investigation by the police failed to develop much in the way of facts. J. M. Sullivan, badly bruised and out, was arrested and is being held in the local jail pending an investigation. Sullivan declared he knew nothing about the matter and that he was bruised when he fell from a bed.

Asserted conflicting statements from various boarders have further tangled the affair. It was thought that several of those concerned were intoxicated.

Take Glass, Buttons From Man's Stomach

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 6.—Featherstone Thomas, a patient sent to the East Mississippi Insane hospital from Philadelphia, Miss., complained of chronic stomach ache. Physicians, after an examination, operated on Thomas and discovered trusser buttons, a nickel, bits of glass and ground glass.

Thomas will live, according to hospital officials.

Iowa Farmer Shows Corn 10 Feet High

SHELDON, Ia., Aug. 6.—Talking about corn measuring six and eight feet tall is getting out of date throughout Northwest Iowa, as A. C. Hatch has on exhibit here several stalks of corn ten feet tall and he has twenty-three acres which he states is just as good. Each of these stalks carries two ears of corn, which are of good size for this season of the year.

'AMERICA' SING AS TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT

Singing of "America," as a tribute to the late President Warren G. Harding, was a feature of the union church services held at Birch park, at 6 o'clock last evening.

The Rev. J. H. Hughes, assistant pastor of the First Methodist church, led the community singing. Immediately following the opening of the services, he asked the congregation to sing "America." The hundreds present responded with heavy hearts and with sympathetic voice.

The Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached the sermon, his subject being "The Gospel of the Second Chance."

Pointing out that some of the biggest and most effective work of Moses, Matthew and Peter had been done after they had been given the second chance, he said that men and women of today who had failed to embrace religious faith should be given every chance to attain that comfort of spirit attendant upon complete acceptance of the Lord.

The Rev. H. G. Burgess, pastor of the Richmond Avenue Methodist church, presided at the services. Vocal solos by Mrs. H. M. Sammis were another feature of the first of the union services to be held during the month.

COUNTERFEIT PAPER MONEY CIRCULATED

Counterfeit $5, $10 and $20 federal reserve notes recently have been put into circulation, according to a warning received here today from Los Angeles. Federal officers urge business men to be on the lookout.

The $20 note is of the series of 1914, with a portrait of Cleveland, issued on the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. It is printed from photo-etched plates on two pieces of paper—the face of the note on thin paper, the back on heavier paper, with silk fibre between. The coloring, the seal and the number of the note is good and the note is described as very deceptive. Both the face and the back are shorter than the genuine.

The $10 counterfeit is on the Federal Reserve bank of Boston. It is printed on two pieces of paper with coarse fibre between. The workmanship is crude, and should deceive no one who is accustomed to handling money.

The $5 note is a particularly deceptive specimen. Printed on two pieces of thin paper with silk fibre between, the coloring, seal and numbering are all good. The most noticeable defect is the portrait of Lincoln, in which the eyes have a particularly unlife-like expression. The ear also is too flat and of unnatural appearance. The note is on the Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia.

TO GIVE MINING DATA BY USE OF REPLICA

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 4.—Persons who have wondered just how gold, silver and other metals were mined will have an opportunity to witness the latest mining methods. At the great mining exposition to be conducted by the department of mines and mining of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and the state mining bureau at the 1923 California state fair, to open Saturday, September 1. Every process of mining will be illustrated in operating exhibits.

The many processes used from the time the ore enters the stamp mill until it comes out of the furnace in the form of bullion or metal bars all will be shown in actual operation. A ten-stamp mill, a working model one-quarter size, will crush the ore and feed it to a complete mercuric-cyanide treatment plant, where the values will be extracted, and then smelted in a furnace. Regulation stamp mills of compact size will be shown in operation. It is hoped to have installed the new Driscoll process plant, which treats California iron ores. All manner of electrical mine equipment will be shown. Air drills will be operated.

A thorough education of the varied minerals of California will be given in reproduction of an underground hoist room, to be built in the main exhibit hall for the housing of a $250,000 collection of minerals, which will include a twelve-inch gold nugget and a $50,000 block of pure tungsten, from Nevada and Kern counties, respectively. Special attention will be given to industrial minerals, and there will be a comprehensive exhibit by the state mining bureau.

On mining day, one of the feature days of the fair, there will be special mining contest; and an evening banquet program for the mining men of California. Noted mine authorities will speak.

Jail Cook on Dope Possession Charge

Frank Roosa, formerly a cook at a local restaurant, was lodged in the county jail today charged with possessing "dope." City Marshal Claude Rodgers estimated that the drugs held as evidence had a value of $150—"at present dope prices." Roosa was arrested early Sunday morning.

It In Vivid Way, Inmates
Reading Letter Say*MONOTONY APPARENT*Finds Caste Prevails Even Behind Bars, In Depicting Noises Made By Steel

Occupants of the Orange county jail today got "quite a kick" out of a highly interesting letter written by a Los Angeles advertising man, who, through a little mishap, found himself a guest of Landlord Moncrief one night not so very long ago.

The jailbirds were a unit in declaring that "P. S. B.," writer of a letter addressed to The Register, had obtained a remarkably clear picture of the weird old jail while playing his one-night stand. The city editor, though aware of the identity of the writer of the letter, deemed it wise to withhold this information, but decided to pass along the type-written impressions of the chap from Los Angeles.

Arise With Call
Here's what "P. S. B." has to say about the Hotel de Orange: "Up and at 'em boys!"

The cry sounds forth and reverberates from corner to corner of the steel-walled room, making a most dismal farce of this early morning summons to another day. Forty sleep-soddened, dream-weary men shift in their grey horse blankets and stir to wakefulness beneath the dim electric lights that strive to thrust through the gloom of this semi-submerged prison, Tank No. 1 of the Orange county jail.

Forty different men, from forty walks of life and for forty different reasons meet another dawn under the same sheet steel roof. Forty men prepare for another day, as enthusiastically as their various natures will permit.

There is the sound of bare feet hitting the steel floor. There is a yawning and a groaning, with here and there a half-murmured song, or a bit of a whistle from some unconcerned inmate, without the proper realization of his predicament.

Some Conversation
There is the sound of fresh, clean water rushing from the tap. Splashing; a dashing into eyes and over face and neck and arms, as the ritual of the morning wash begins.

A rattling of tin spoons and graniteware cups; a sound of matches striking; and then a fifteen-minute lull, the usual morning wait for breakfast.

The outside steel door swings open. A few grates in the heavily-barred gate.

"Morning boys," and the jailer swings open the gate while the cooks bring in the meals. Hot, steaming coffee, and plenty of it; sugar, too, and occasionally a dash of milk. A big pan of warm oatmeal, or steamed rice, smothered in good, fresh milk, and a half a loaf of white bread.

The line forms and passes by the cooks. Each man takes his breakfast and goes to his previously-assigned place at the dining-table. A few scraps of conversation. A muttered curse or too at the sameness of the menu. A disgruntled man or two disdaining

—And Santa Ana Grew

Compact Stories of Pioneers Who Built Enterprises on Firm Foundations That Tidal Waves of Depression Could Not Wash Away—The Future Was Anticipated.

W. W. HALESWORTH

By TOM LEWIS

Fifty years ago, when Albert W. Birch, an ambitious merchant of Cuba, Ill., decided to shake the dust of Fulton county from his feet and make a bid for fame and fortune in the golden west, he left behind an enthusiastic young friend who was simply wild to see California.

That young man, scarcely more than a boy, was William Wallace Halesworth, owner and builder of the "house of a hundred thousand bricks," and now one of Santa Ana's most substantial citizens.

Halesworth, a pioneer, who has lived to see some astounding changes in this community, came to the Santa Ana valley when the nearest railroad connection was at Lathrop, in Northern California, and long before electric light had been introduced in Los Angeles.

William Wallace Halesworth, who resides at 1314 North Broadway in a mansion hemmed in by cedars and palms set out by him more than forty years ago, paid $700 for thirty acres of land in what is known today as one of the most select residential sections in Santa Ana. The Halesworth mansion, built for him by the Grouards, was situated in the very heart of this choice tract and has long been one of the show places of Orange county.

Cites Magazine Writer
If you ask William Halesworth what brought him to the Santa Ana valley, he will answer, without hesitation, "Albert W. Birch, of Cuba, Ill., and Charles Nordhoff, a special writer for Harper's Magazine." But this requires explanation.

Years ago, in the quiet evenings in bleak Illinois, Albert W. Birch, who was then the proprietor of a store and lumber yard in Fulton county, spent much of his spare time in reading. His health being bad, his eye was attracted by the colorful articles of Nordhoff, depicting the glories of sun-kissed California.

Birch spoke of this to his brother, James, and William Halesworth, the latter a clerk in the store of Berry and Birch.

"Boys," Birch said, addressing them one night in 1872, "I find myself yielding to the temptation to go out to California and explore this wonderful country described by Nordhoff in Harper's. If the country is half as good as he claims it is, I think I know where my future home will be."

Birch, whose name is so closely linked with the early development of Santa Ana, left Illinois in the fall of 1872.

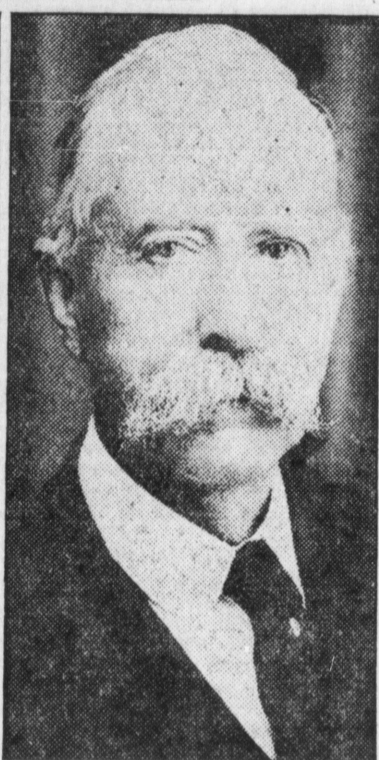

Writes Three Letters
Arriving in California, he wrote three memorable letters to Halesworth in Illinois. Those letters, still in the possession of Halesworth, are among the pioneer's most treasured possessions, for they were largely instrumental in shaping his whole life work.

The first letter, dated Visalia, was written December 5, 1872. The second letter was written from San Diego, December 20. The third letter, showing that Birch had found the land of heart's content, was dated Santa Ana, Los Angeles county, January 19, 1873.

"Taking all matters into consideration," Birch wrote from Visalia, "I concluded the best thing for me to do was to buy a team and light wagon and drive from here to Southern California."

"I have accordingly got a pretty fair rig—horses, light second-hand spring wagon and harness, costing $196 gold. The horses are small, but are young, and good travelers. I can now take my baggage, bed and board, and be independent of everybody."

Plenty of Game
"I only had you along I certainly would be fixed. There would be plenty of game on the way. I expect to leave here in the morning, looking at places of interest, between here and Los Angeles, and so on to San Diego. It will be from two to three weeks before I reach there."

Writing later, Birch informed Halesworth he thought Los Angeles was the most beautiful city he had ever beheld, but admitted Santa Diego did not impress him, despite its magnificent harbor. Speaking of San Diego, he wrote:

"Business seems to be entirely overdone. As it will be two or three, or perhaps five years before there is a railroad, I do not see much chance for its business to improve very soon. And even then, it will only become a re-shipping point. When it reaches 20,000 inhabitants I think it will be somewhat more than complete. One thing is certain—it always will be a dear place to live, as nearly everything must be brought from a distance."

Concerning the Santa Ana valley, which had impressed him at the very outset, Birch had no misgivings.

Buy 13 Acres
"I suppose that ere this reaches you," Birch wrote from Santa Ana January 19, 1873, "you will have learned from Louisa that I have bought a small place here (thirteen acres in what is now the very heart of Santa Ana), and that I have been trying to buy another."

"I am very well satisfied with my purchases and hope to continue so. But I slipped up on the 150-acre tract. The parties who had contracted for it came to time with the money when they found I was after it. It was an excellent bargain and I would not have taken $100 for the bargain had I been the successful party. There is considerable land for sale and I shall probably buy another piece."

"I am satisfied a person can do well here with 20 to 40 acres if properly selected and properly treated. Nordhoff does not write anything in his book but what can be accomplished if a person gets the right kind of land properly situated and then expends the necessary work and care to bring it to perfection."

"For fruits and vineyards the profits are so great that almost anything will pay to bring them

SAY BOOM NOW IS FORERUNNER
OF GREAT ERA*Santa Ana As Metropolis
No Longer But Dream,
State Business Men

Notwithstanding its remarkable record of the past few years, the city of Santa Ana, fully awake to the tremendous possibilities at its command, now is but opening its doors to a field of development which hardy pioneers of the past would not have dreamed as within reason.

This vast development will turn Santa Ana into a veritable metropolis, with a score of eight and ten-story buildings pointing into the sky; will treble its population and double its business sector; will make the city a garden-spot of handsome homes, owned by contented residents and will assure a lasting prosperity which the onslaughts of "hard times" will never break down.

These conditions, not the dreams of dreamers, but the firm beliefs of level-headed business men, were the visions of the future Santa Ana as expressed to The Register today.

Cite Skyscraper
In support of their argument, these men pointed out that one six-story, Class A building already is under construction at the corner of Fourth and Main streets, and that a ten-story structure, at the corner of Fourth and Bush streets, probably will be a reality within another year.

At the same time, the boosters declared it significant that building permits for the first seven months of 1923 total in money within $450,000 of the sum expended during the entire year of 1922.

Figures compiled by the city building inspector disclose that the so-called "summer-slump" in construction here is a thing of the past.

Both June and July were banner months, with the building total exceeding $1,000,000.

Optimism Merited
"Santa Ana residents cannot be too optimistic as to the future," J. C. Metzger, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said. "I don't believe any of us fully comprehend the changes which ten years, or even less, will make in our expansion."

New residents are arriving daily. They are bringing new capital, prepared to invest in property in which they realize they can't make a mistake in so doing. Manufacturing eventually will come and, then, thousands of more people."

Max Smith of the Wilmax Land company has the utmost confidence in the city's future.

"Santa Ana's development has been marvelous," Smith declared, "but it is as nothing compared to the next few years. The present spell of furious activity in building is but a forerunner of the great era that will begin in the fall and continue in an ever-increasing pace this winter."

S. A. Getting Quota
Stanley Goode, local realtor, is of the opinion that skyscrapers and huge business blocks will be common here in the course of a few years.

People who have been away a year or two return here and remark that Santa Ana is growing tremendously," Goode said. "When they come back like that five years from now they'll have to take elevators into ten-story buildings to greet us."

"People are coming to California in great trainloads. Santa Ana is going to get its quota of these newcomers. These will bring others. Money will come, manufacturing will come and business naturally will increase."

F. T. Smith, local agent for the Santa Fe railway, declared the influx of Easterners is increasing almost from day to day.

"The attractiveness of Orange county has spread throughout the country," Smith said. "We are informed that more persons are coming to Southern California than ever before. Most of them are coming to live. The Santa Ana offices of the railroad companies can state with accuracy that new records are being set from month to month."

Predicts 75,000

Carl Mock of Shaw and Russell, local real estate firm, said experience had given him an inkling as to the future.

"In the course of a month," Mock said, "scores of persons come to the real estate offices in the city looking about for a suitable location. They have seen enough of Santa Ana that they want to locate here permanently."

"As the years pass, the number of these settlers will increase. There is ample room for Santa Ana's expansion. The city can extend east, north, south and west. I expect to see a Santa Ana of 75,000 persons, of great business blocks, of car lines on many streets and of huge new residence districts."

Investment Safe
J. Wiley Harris, local realtor, has noticed a desire on the part of many new residents for outside city property, and walnut and orange groves.

"This is always a good sign," Harris said, "for it signifies that people are satisfied that the city will grow and its property enhance in value."

Few realize the benefits to be gained in Santa Ana investments.

BUILDING CODE OF COUNTY TO BE PROBED*Uniform Regulations Aim of Meeting Set Here
For Tomorrow

Adoption of a uniform code of building regulations and strict enforcement of inspection in cities of the county was expected to result from a meeting, tomorrow evening, of members of city councils, secretaries of chambers of commerce and other officials with the Santa Ana branch of the Los Angeles builders' exchange, at 203 Spurgeon street, this city. It was announced today by George R. Wells, secretary.

Wells said that reservations made indicate the presence of 100 men of the county. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner, to be served at 6:30 p. m., at the exchange headquarters.

Appointment of a committee to revise and make building codes of the cities uniform will be the first step in the program, it was expected.

"Better building is the slogan of the exchange," Wells said. "Building laws of the cities of the county are ambiguous, some being difficult of interpretation both by contractors and the public. It is our purpose to develop a code that will be easy of interpretation and one that will be uniform throughout the county."

"In some of the cities inspection is not what it should be, with the result that poor construction is 'slipped over.' The matter is one of the greatest importance to owners, as well as to contractors."

IN S. A. AS VISITOR GIRL ENCHANTED BY CITY, NOW BOOSTER

The theory that the only boosters are men has been shattered.

Here is a girl who can boost with the best of them.

She is Miss Dorothy Lewis, who came to Santa Ana from San Francisco eight months ago for a visit.

"Just a visit to Santa Ana wasn't enough for me," said Miss Lewis. "It's just too nice a place to leave, so I unpacked my trunk, went out to look for something to do and here I am to stay."

"I think Santa Ana is a wonderful city and the people are all just as wonderful," said this girl who by her enthusiasm and devotion to the city deserves a name on the honor roll as one of Santa Ana's premier feminine boosters.

But she doesn't just merely sit around and boost. Not by a long way. She is the busy little assistant to Clyde Whitney in the office of the Orange County Title company.

"I believe every girl should be able to support herself, and I believe that every girl should be busy," she said, and that is why she took a business course in San Francisco after she was graduated from the Ursuline convent at Santa Rosa.

Although she is a first-class business woman, business is not her only interest.

Miss Lewis is an all around out-door girl. She swims and dives, plays tennis and likes everything that pertains to outdoors. She has much charm and grace and plays the piano excellently.

Colonel Jack Lewis, of the United States cavalry, now located in Chicago, is Miss Lewis' father. He was in active service in the Spanish-American war and also in the World war.

Mrs. Lewis has just been in Santa Ana visiting her daughter and Mrs. Frances Dean, with whom Miss Lewis makes her home, at the Spurgeon Bungalow apartments. Mrs. Lewis is also in love with Santa Ana now and has fallen a victim to her daughter's boosting ability.

$90,000 SAVED
EACH 30 DAYS
IN COUNTY AS GAS IS CUT
TWO CENTS*State Tax of Like Amount Becomes Effective on October 1, Though*WATCH BIG COMPANIES*Motorists Wonder If Fuel
Producers Will Absorb
Revenue Levy Added

The gasoline price war raging in Southern California, credited with forcing the recent reduction of 2 cents on the gallon, will make it possible for Orange county consumers of the fuel to slip into their jeans the sum of $90,000 for August and a like amount for the following month, it was estimated here today by parties fully competent to figure the saving.

It was pointed out that had it not been for the price war, the aggregate sum of the two months would have accrued to the distributing companies and be reflected, later, in increased dividends to stockholders.

The consumers are confronted with this happy situation for only two months, for, on the first of October, they will slip down in the pockets of their jeans and dig up 2 cents more to satisfy the gasoline tax to be exacted by the state for the benefit of the road funds of the state and counties.

25,000 Cars Here

All of the $90,000 saved in each of the two months will not be passed on to the state, however, for all consumers do not have to pay the gas tax. Fuel used in farming operations is exempt. It is estimated that the exemption will run to $11,250 per month.

Based on an estimate of 25,000 cars in the county, the $90,000 reduction in total fuel costs would be equivalent to a saving of $3.60 per car. Trucks and tractors, however, consume no inconsiderable quantity of the fuel, and the proportion they consume would reduce the average per car for each month. Figures are not available indicating the number of trucks and tractors in the county. County Assessor Sleeper estimated the number of automobiles at 25,000.

Await Future Action

The quoted total saving per month was based on the statement of a man prominent in the distributing end of the gasoline business. He estimated the peak consumption for the months of June, July, August and September at 4,500,000 gallons per month, with the remaining months of the year averaging a consumption of 2,500,000 gallons. He estimated that one-eighth of the consumption is by farm equipment.

While it is true that purchasers will have to give the state 2 cents a gallon on and after October 1, the fact remains that the estimated saving remains effective until such a time, if ever, when the managements decide that the price should step up.

With the gas-tax effective date less than two months away, local consumers were asking whether there would be a further decline, or whether the gas companies would continue present retail prices after October 1 and offer another reduction, in fact, by absorbing the tax, instead of passing it on to the consumers.

BOAT LAUNCHED AT BALBOA IS UNIQUE TYPE

BALBOA, Aug. 6.—The only craft of its kind on the Pacific coast, a "Block Island" type of two masted, motor powered boat, has been launched here.

The craft, a trim looking boat, carries for her motive power the first successful installation of 7 1/2 horsepower Deisel engine on the coast.

She is built mainly of oak, is 31 1/2 feet long, and cost $10,000, according to B. C. Huber, owner.

The craft is said to be exceptionally seaworthy.

The name is derived from Block Island off the New England coast where this type of boat is used almost exclusively. She is narrow and long, pointed bow and stern, and sits low in the water.

Two masts supply the sailing power when the engine is not being used.

She was given a trial trip a few days ago, and according to Mr. Huber, was entirely successful.

The craft will be used for charter parties, for taking parties to Mexico, and for fishing, Mr. Huber said.

The performance of the boat is being watched with interest by boatmen here because of the novelty of the craft. She was built by the Frank Fordham shop of Balboa.

ORANGE ELKS HOPE FOR CHARTER SOON

ORANGE, Aug. 6.—A local Elks lodge is one step nearer realization following the sending to Chicago of a petition carrying the names of fifty-four local men, asking for permission to institute a lodge here.

About 60 days will have elapsed before the formalities of instituting a lodge here will have been complied with, it was stated Saturday.

Matters are being held in abeyance until the arrival of the permission, it was said.

The alleged I. W. W. was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, after his arrest at the time of incendiary packing house fires in Orange county.

TEACHERS ARE ALL EMPLOYED AT ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Aug. 6.—With the last of the thirty-seven teachers selected plans are being made to take care of the 650 students who will crowd the buildings to capacity when the Anaheim union high school opens September 11, according to announcement made this morning by Principal J. A. Claves.

Four teachers have been added to the staff to take care of the increase in enrollment and a budget of approximately $160,000 has been asked for maintenance of the school. Last year's budget was $153,993.82.

There will be no change in the administrative work of the school. Principal J. A. Claves will be assisted by Miss Bella J. Walker and Prof. George Hedstrom, vice-principals, and Miss Myrtle Winters, secretary.

Records of the school show a remarkable increase in enrollment during the past few years. When Mr. Claves took charge of the school five years ago, 237 pupils were enrolled, while at least 650 are expected to enter school at the opening of the fall term.

Last year the balcony of the study hall in the main building was converted into class rooms to take care of the big enrollment. Playground and recreation space at the high school has gradually diminished as new buildings were erected, and school authorities are hard pressed to find breathing space for the young people.

The complete list of teachers follows:

Art: Mrs. Irene McLean Swan. Commercial: D. E. Lehmer, Miss Pearl Edwards, Miss Almada Hodgdon. Domestic Science: Miss Martina Neal, Miss Madeline Conover, Mrs. Helen G. Lane. ## SCHOOL OPENING POSTPONED WHILE

LA HABRA, Aug. 6.—Vacation will officially end September 10, but in order to aid the walnut picking, the local school board has arranged to open the West Side school, which has the children of the Mexican camp for pupils, on August 13. The school will remain open until the season for picking walnuts comes later in the fall when it will be closed to allow the pupils to work in the orchards, reopening after the close of the walnut season.

The West End school will have five teachers this year, the same number that taught last year. There is no change in the faculty except Miss Alta Bolton of Whittier, who will come here for the first time this fall. Miss Bolton has been teaching in the Rancho school south of Whittier. Mr. Mendenhall will be principal again.

The La Habra grammar school will open on September 10 and it is expected there will be a record attendance. The board of trustees, it is stated, has contemplated changing the name of this school from the La Habra grammar school, which is, they feel, too comprehensive with three schools in existence, to the Washington school, companion name to the new building, the Lincoln school. This last structure which is under way at present is being delayed, it is said, by lack of bricklayers. There is such a scarcity of such artisans that the work is being slowed up considerably. The current wage now earned by these men, it is stated, is from $12 to $14 per day and at that price not enough can be secured to rush the building as fast as it is desired.

It was hoped to have the new building ready by October, but officials state that November will be the earliest date, according to the present outlook, that it can be finished. In the meanwhile the pupils will be cared for at the present school plant.

Attendance last year increased in marked degree up to February, and it is thought that the beginning of the year will not see crowded conditions for the new building will be finished in time to relieve the increase which will be sure to come as the winter advances.

REALTY MAN HURT NEAR BAKERSFIELD

ORANGE, Aug. 6.—Word of the serious injury of George Wobler, Bakersfield representative of the Lyon Realty company, was received at the local office Saturday.

According to T. J. Martin of the office here, Mr. Wobler sustained painful and serious injuries to his back when an automobile, in which he was riding, figured in an accident.

"He was a very valuable man, and we regret exceedingly that his injuries put him out of commission for a while. We certainly hope they will not prove serious," Mr. Martin said.

VULCANIZER MISSING.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—Elmer D. Graves, vulcanizer who resides at 303 Tenth street, cannot be found. Neighbors of the man say he has been gone about ten days and are of the opinion that he is now in Mexico. His wife also is in ignorance of his whereabouts. Should he not return soon it is said that the matter will be officially investigated. A sheriff's attachment for $500 has been brought by Harry

Club Visitors At Beach Return Home

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—The Queen Esther Circle girls of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday afternoon bid farewell to two of their little friends from the David and Margaret Home at La Verne, who they have been entertaining for the past two weeks.

The girls, Ethel Watkins and Beatrice Colton, have been entertained at each of the homes of the fifteen members of the club. Mrs. A. J. Thedieck, leader of the club, reports that the girls of the organization have made their young proteges six new dresses during the past few months. The Queen Esther girls have shown them a fine time and the little girls were reluctant to return to the home.

Beach parties and plunge parties are only a small part of the many fine times they have enjoyed as guests of the club.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

YOST—Vaudeville and "Slander the Woman" with Dorothy Phillips. WEST END—"Main Street," with Florence Vidor and Monte Blue. PRINCESS—"Fruits of Faith," with Will Rogers.

"SLANDER THE WOMAN" AT YOST TONIGHT

Although "Slander the Woman," Dorothy Phillips' new starring vehicle, is a story of the Canadian woods, there is no handsome member of the Canadian Royal North-west Mounted Police in the picture. In this respect, "Slander the Woman" is unique, because heretofore it has been the custom to inject a member of the famous police force whether he was needed or not.

"Slander the Woman," which was directed by Allen Holubar, will be shown at the Yost theater for two days, beginning tonight.

It is a story that might be produced anywhere, but because the book called for Canadian atmosphere, and Director Holubar is a stickler for realism in producing pictures, he secured authentic wilderness scenes. He followed the author faithfully even to eliminating the mounted police.

"MAIN STREET" SCORES AT WEST END SCREEN

"Main Street" opened yesterday at the West End theater for an engagement of five days. It is a decided success, a picture with a punch, the picture of the year one could say without exaggeration. Whether it was the masterly acting of Florence Vidor and Monte Blue, and the all-star cast, or the exceptional direction of Harry Beaumont, or the sheer strength of Sinclair Lewis' story, is hard to say. But what can be said is that these elements all combine into the making of a picture that one will have to go far to equal.

The story, very briefly, is of Carol Kennicott, brought to Gopher Prairie by her husband, the worthy Doctor Kennicott. She rebels against what she considers the narrowness and lack of culture in the small town; she wants to revolutionize it in a short time. But the inhabitants are easy-going and phlegmatic; they don't like being shaken out of their old ruts. The climax is fascinatingly worked out.

RECORDS NIGHT AND DAY HERE WITHIN JAIL

the food, and beginning a day-long, hurried walk two and around the tiers of bunks.

Then: "Everybody off the floor." A hasty scrambling into bunks. A lifting of the benches and the scrubbing of the tables. A hose comes through the bars and a stream of hot water cleans the floors. Moppers, in their dungarees, without shirts or shoes, mop up the floor.

Cards Without Stakes

A few men sleep. A game of parlor whist begins and goes on with the undivided interest and attention of the four players. No stakes, but the hours to be won from bitter ennui and despair. No wager, but that of every player against the ravages of meditation. Magazines appear. A book or two is passed from one reader to another, with more or less appropriate criticism and calm review.

Here and there a man begins his weekly laundry work. Blankets are shaken out and neatly folded at the heads of bunks.

The hours go by. Some barely noticed as a lapse of time.

Three o'clock, the dinner hour. Luncheon and dinner combined in one meal. A pan of steaming beef and potatoes. Not so bad. Not good, but not bad. More coffee.

The old-timers save half this meal for a later hour. Bread and meat is wrapped in newspapers and put away for that before bedtime bite.

A new prisoner is ushered in by the jailer. Court is convened; kangaroo court, instigated and held by the prisoners. The new inmate is charged with entering this private tank without the consent of the tenants. He pleads guilty and adds that it was without his consent.

Leaders Find Place

A fine of $3 is imposed on the new arrival. If he has it he pays and the money goes to a general fund to buy sugar, and stamps, razor blades and writing paper, tobacco, soap and the dozen and more other comforts denied the prisoners in the usual course of county expenditures.

If he has no money the prisoner becomes a mopper and is credited with 10 cents a day on his fine for the work he does.

All men may be born equal, but jail brings out the best and the worst of the different classes. The bum outside is a bum in jail. The leader outside is the leader in jail.

A marked degree of caste pre-

WILL ROGERS FILM CLOSES AT PRINCESS TONIGHT

Will Rogers believes in making his family work and bring home the bread and butter as well as himself. For instance, in "Fruits of Faith," his picture which closes at the Princess tonight, young Jimmy Rogers is seen helping his father up the screen drama. And Jimmy has such a pleasing screen personality that we might predict great things for him in the future.

"TRIFLING WITH HONOR" AT PRINCESS TOMORROW

"Trifling With Honor," which comes to the Princess tomorrow, scores a "bull's-eye" in the human interest target of every person's thoughts.

The story carries one from the drab atmosphere within the gray walls of San Quentin prison to the sunlit, "crowd-hurrying" scenic vista of a great American baseball field. Further than that it reveals the shadows of a man's inner self, black with greedy thoughts of mercenary gain, remaining dark even in the spotlight of public favor, but brightening through the boyish hero worship of a tough kid.

"Trifling With Honor" is a human story for human folks, with the type of love theme that all persons like to visualize and a dramatic interest that holds from the first long shot to the final fade-out.

An all-star cast includes such well-known players as Rockcliffe Fellows, Fritz Ridgway, Buddy Messenger, Hayden Stevenson, William Welch, Frederick Stanton and William Robert Daly.

ails among the men.

The lights remain on all day. The ventilating fans purr steadily. The hours move onward.

Suddenly the lights wink twice. It's the "go to bed children" sign. Fifteen minutes of hasty preparations. Men disrobing. Men reposing fully clothed. Cigarettes and matches being handily placed at the heads of bunks. A creaking of steel mattresses as heavy bodies settle on to them.

Desultory bits of conversation. Last words. Groans. Coughs. Lights out!

Twisting, tossing, turning bodies. Matches flaring. A muttered curse or two.

A forbidden conversation. More muttered curses.

CHECKS ISSUED TO TIDE OVER GRAVES SAYS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—R. G. Graves, formerly of the Huntington Beach Star, who was arrested in Los Angeles by Chief of Police Jack Tinsley recently, was arraigned in Judge Cox's court late Saturday morning. His bail was set at $1000.

Graves was arrested Thursday night at 12 o'clock on Broadway, Los Angeles, after a chase which took Chief Tinsley from here to Bakersfield, then to San Francisco and thence back to Los Angeles, where the arrest was made.

His preliminary hearing was set for September 6. Graves passed about $400 worth of checks. In a statement made to Chief Tinsley yesterday the chief said the prisoner confessed to a "run of bad luck" and said that he thought he could "get away with it" until he could get on his feet.

His wife has come to him from Oakland and will stick with her husband it is said. The prisoner's father and mother, both of Los Angeles, also made the trip here to see him. His father is a publisher in Los Angeles.

His Wife, Baby, Job Gone Talbert Man Appeals to Police

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—"Lost, a wife, and a son, and my job." So said L. Mordina of Talbert who yesterday afternoon solicited the aid of the local officers in tracing his wife and six year old son who have been missing since Monday. The wife is a recent acquirement on the part of Mordina, who was recently married for the second time to Miss Cooke Colpera. His son, Pedro, six years old, by a former wife, and his present spouse are missing. For the past week he has been scouring the country for traces of them. The bride's parents and relatives live near Talbert but profess all ignorance of her disappearance. Meanwhile, the father and husband, who has lost his job looking for the lost ones, has turned the search over to the police and is now looking for a new job.

Lifeguard's Friends at Beach Some Day Hope to Rescue Maidens From Sea

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—Harry Lee, local life guard, and several of his small friends who daily come to visit him to "learn things" from the guard, are seen in the above picture.

All of them are fine swimmers and the majority of them have no qualms in diving from the top of the pier into the surf for a swim in to the shore.

Lee is training several of them and intends to give them the Red Cross examination soon. "Bud" Higgins, standing at the right of the guard, has several times proven of assistance and will be one of those to take the examination soon.

Vanity Case Is Rescued From Sea

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—People at Huntington Beach yesterday morning about 11 a. m. were given an opportunity to see the efficiency of the local life saving corps demonstrated.

In response to cries for assistance, the life guard, Harry Lee, and one of his small friends, who has proven of assistance several times, rushed to the end of the pier and plunged into the surf to rescue a vanity case.

The case belonging to a pretty young woman was returned to her, while the gallant guard blushing and modestly received the thanks of the grateful owner.

Upon opening the case it was found undamaged. The inside was perfectly dry.

BUILDING AT HUNTINGTON INCREASES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—Building permits for 1923 up to August 1 total $872,549, nearly $100,000 more than the total for 1922.

Permits issued last year totalled $773,775.

Building activity here is on the up grade. Buildings this year seem to run more to business and commercial houses, although the usual amount of homes are also being erected.

July Record Month
The month of July for this year has a total of nearly $200,000 more than any other month for the past two years. In May, 1922, the building permits ran over the amount of $100,000. Already this year months have totaled over the $100,000 mark and two others have come close to that amount. The lowest total of any month up to the present time is for June when $37,195 was the total valuation of permits.

Last year the lowest month was September, when $29,100 in permits were issued. The issuance of the permit for the $250,000 school building brought the month's total far ahead of any single month for this year or last year.

A comparison of permits issued for each corresponding month for this season and for last year reveals the fact that a much wider expansion has taken place in the building activities of the city this year.

For the period ending August 1 last year 296 permits were issued, in comparison with 352 for the same period this year. A sum of $504,051 was the total expenditure for the first seven months of 1923, while already this year there has been $872,549 issued, $330,905 of which was issued in July.

In January, 1922, thirty-eight permits totaling $145,655 for the same in comparison with sixty-six permits totaling $134,655 for the same month this season. The increase was also great in February, 1922, when thirty-one permits representing an expenditure of $41,270 were issued. The same month of 1923 disclosed sixty-four permits and $104,965. March of 1923 fell behind that month for 1922, having only fifty-nine permits in comparison with sixty-six for last year and a total of $76,599 to $91,538 last year. April of 1922 found forty-nine permits issued, but only $83,090 represented, while the same month this year found only forty-eight permits, but $94,265 represented.

June, 1923, is Low
May proved to be the largest month for 1922 with fifty-one permits and $109,508 represented, while May, 1923, saw only thirty-seven issued for a total of $82,895.

June of 1923 has proven the lowest month of the year with thirty-eight permits representing $37,195 issued, in comparison with the corresponding month in 1922 when there were less permits, thirty-three, but more capital represented, $60,570.

July of 1923 is the largest month in capital than any month either this or last year, with $330,905 issued on forty permits. July of last year showed a total of twenty-eight permits, representing an expenditure of $60,335.

Two more permits were taken out Friday, one for a new $4000 residence by A. J. Thiedeck of Eighth street. The new house will be erected at 525 Seventeenth street. George Green is the contractor for the work. Another permit was issued to the Union high school for the construction of a bungalow containing three class rooms, which will cost about $2000. "Yes, Huntington each is growing a little," say the old timers, and most people are inclined to agree with them.

BIG CAR SMASHED ON BEACH CORNER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6. A Stephens roadster belonging to the Townsend motor car company was badly smashed Friday night when a Ford touring car rounded the corner of Third and Walnut streets about 9 o'clock p. m. Both Ford driver and car disappeared soon after the accident. The last seen of them was when the man was pushing the car down Second street soon after the crash. The Ford did not seem to be damaged to a great extent. The Stephens roadster looked as if a truck had hit it, said those who saw the car after the accident.

Efforts are being made to locate the mysterious car and its driver, by the local police force. It is thought that the man may come in and report the accident to avoid further trouble.

No further developments were reported today on the rumor that a man clad in his night shirt was seen late Friday night near Compton.

VAL of PARADISE
by Virginia S. Roe

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN HANNON, wealthy ranch owner, his blind wife, BELLE, and their beautiful daughter, VAL, live happily together in Hannon's wonderful ranch home, Paradise. Redstar is the king of the Red Blood of horses owned by the master of the ranch. Val, on Redstar, rides to the Mesa Grande and, while resting on its flat top, she sees a strangely handsome man on a mount amazingly like Redstar.

In a game at Hunnewell's store in Santa Leandra, VELANTRIE from the Border wins LOLA SANCHEZ, who offers herself as stake for BRIDEMAN, a man of mystery. Velantrie sends Lola home to her father. FATHER HILL LAIRE, in charge of the Mission near Paradise, is visited by his friend, Velantrie, who brings him a present of gold for his poor.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, my son," he said softly, "I have grieved over this waste for all the months I have known you! Loss—loss! It is not right, a crime against humanity for a man like you—a man who can control himself—to cast his high chance to the four winds."

Velantrie smiled in the gathering darkness.

"You know, father," he said, "that I'd take that from none but you."

"I know," said the priest firmly, "and I dare, I have dared much in my time. The keen knife is the kindest. I dare because I love you."

"And I take it and come back—for the same reason, see," he said aside the clasp of his fingers and reached in a pocket on his hip.

"I have ridden a day and half a night to bring you this. I will cover the same ground in the next few hours to get back from whence I came. But the bringing gives me joy."

He lifted the old man's hand and placed therein a buckskin bag, heavy, and musical with the dull clink of gold.

"Take it," he said, "it is yours."

But Father Hillaire shuddered and his fingers slipped loose from the other's pressure, so that the bag fell back upon the table.

"I can't," he said sadly, "it is tainted gold."

"True," said Velantrie, gaily, "I took it from a mine-owner who owns a thousand ponies, soul and body who drives them through hunger and oppression down into the darkness of death with never a hope or a comfort." His soft voice had become suddenly hard and bitter.

Father Hillaire caught his own breath in a sigh.

"Oh, my son! I cannot vision such a thing! It puts me to this life. Give it up to the life. Start over—go away—into the north—where—where—forget these rides, these desperate risks, this dashing against the law of God and man!"

With a quick spring Velantrie was on his feet. He swept the bag of gold into his hand and held it out.

"Will you take it?" he asked evenly, "to buy food for your poor, aged, your sick and your little ones that swarm here in our blessed garden? Or shall I ride south again and squander it on the gaming tables of Cordon and Carmentis, on the girls of the dance halls?"

He was steady, cool, ready to do what he promised. Slowly the old priest rose to face him in the dusk. He stretched out a hand, and the bag of gold was in his hand, and he took the bag of gold, and dropped it in the deep pocket of his cassock.

Velantrie smiled that brilliant lighting of his lean face that shone like a fire behind a curtain, and putting a hand on the other's shoulder shook it gently. Then he whirled and put his fingers to his lips. The whistle that startled the quiet garden "was enough to split the ear-drums. Instantly from the distant side of the enclosure where the stables stood there came an answer, a wild, shrill, heavy scream, the piercing neigh of a stallion, and a huge dark bulk came trotting swiftly down the walks beneath the trees, its rein, jerked from the hands of Bonifacio, dangling at its feet.

Velantrie put his palm to the horse's lip, their secret sign of greeting.

"Goodby, father," said Velantrie, gravely, "buenas noches, Vale!" he added gracefully, giving the farewell in three tongues.

Then he gripped the other's hand hard, caught the pommel and other horse—only other one in all the earth to match. The Comet, the wondrous red king of John Hannon's brood."

CHAPTER V

"Why Don't You Run, Redstar?"

NIGHT lay soft on Paradise. Tree toads talked at intervals and a cicada shrilled its endless tune, while out in one of the gay-fringed hammocks young Felicitia, slim and brown, listened with downcast eyes to the gentle voice of Arias Gomez, also slim and brown, pleading the ancient tale in the ancient way.

CONSIDER S. A. FOR CLUB IN D LEAGUE

Los Angeles Star Is Net Sensation Of Eastern Season

Coast League Magnates May Finance Teams to Develop Players

That Santa Ana is being given serious consideration as the site for a club in a Class D baseball league, to be organized and financed in Southern California by Pacific Coast league magnates, was authoritatively learned here today.

This league, it was understood, will include eight clubs located in such cities as Long Beach, Anaheim, Pasadena, Pomona and Santa Ana, will have a regular playing schedule of at least four games a week, will have salaried managers and players, and will be the "farm" to which promising Coast league recruits will be sent for further seasoning.

Cities Report Favorably

The formation of this organization was discussed at a meeting at the Los Angeles Athletic club last Saturday night and while little was accomplished, representatives from surrounding cities reported favorably.

C. C. "Garry" Cravath, of Laguna Beach, former home run king of the major league, was present at the meeting as was Fred Clarke, manager of the Pirates, in the days of the Pittsburgh championships.

It is understood that Cravath is wanted either as an official for the proposed league or as manager of one of the teams, probably the Santa Ana club.

Cravath, it was learned, is willing to assist in the project if the league is financed by the Coast league clubs, and players are paid just as in any other baseball organization.

Would Play Regularly

The class D league would enable such local players as "Tough" Tyrell, Neal Raney, Ed Cutting and "Dutch" Hinrichs to obtain a thorough try-out with the chance to play regularly whereas by reporting to Coast league camps during the spring training season they would be lucky to break into the game once a week.

While it is doubtful if professional baseball could be made a paying proposition from a financial standpoint here or at almost any other Southern California city the size of Santa Ana, Coast league magnates would consider their money well spent if they could develop three or four men who could make the grade in faster company after a year of seasoning.

GET GARBAGE OUT DEPARTMENT ASKS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 6.—"People must get their garbage out earlier in the morning. If they don't like to get up at seven in the morning to get it out, then they had better set it out at night," was the comment of F. L. Candee of the local engineering department in response to numerous complaints in regard to the garbage not being collected.

The matter was looked into and thoroughly investigated and it was found that the people were not getting their refuse out in time for the collector, he said, and consequently the garbage was not taken up.

The city has an efficient garbage force and everything is being done to keep the town clean, but it is impossible to do it if the people will not meet the requirements. Friday morning the collector was forced to retrace his route over two streets because of the tardiness of the residents.

GIANTS RALLY, BEAT STRONG OPPONENTS

McGraw's Club Again Plays Championship Baseball; Face Reds Third Time

BY HENRY L. FARRELL, (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Possession of enough power to always have gas left for the stiffest grade is what makes the New York Giants one of the greatest ball clubs.

Time after time in the last three seasons the Giants have gone into desperate situations only to rally out of them with brilliant baseball.

As the champions did on their way to two pennants, they are doing this year on the loafs, to a third world's series in succession.

When John McGraw took his team away from New York for an invasion through the strong western points with a lead of only three games and a pitching staff that didn't look strong enough to hold up it was generally accepted by the critics that the trip would make or break the champions.

Up to now with their strongest opposition behind them it appears that the Giants are more likely to be made than broke on the trip.

The Cards are a dangerous ball club, but they have been bumped around considerably of late. The Braves have been mauling them around and unless they come out of it, the Giants are liable to sweep the series.

The crippled pitching staff of the champions apparently is working around in shape. Ryan and McQuillan turned in two games against Luque and Rixey, two of Pat Moran's big three, and only Pete Donohue is available now for a shot at another game.

If the Giants get back home without losing their lead and it seems sure now that they will, it looks like another world's series in New York.

Even in the Reds had failed to make the best of their present opportunity, it does not mean that they are out of the race, but does mean that they will have a much harder job to win out.

Helen Wills Loses to Mola Mallory at Rye

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Fading away under the intense heat and a relentless attack, Miss Helen Wills, California, was defeated in the final rounds for the New York state championship by Mrs. Molla Mallory, the national champion. The scores were 4-6, 6-1 and 6-0.

In the Big Leagues

The old army game of passing Babe Ruth kicked back right in the face of the Browns. Vangilder let the Babe go down in the thirteenth inning and Meusel crashed one that gave the Yanks a 9 to 8 victory.

The Athletics did not lose. They didn't play.

Doing what pitchers are not supposed to. Hugel McQuillan drove in a run with a double and helped the Giants win his game from the Reds, 2 to 0.

The Indians used up all their stuff taking the series from the Yanks and they dropped one to the Senators, 6 to 5.

"Ice" Berg melted at shortstop and let a grounder through him, scoring a run that gave the Cubs a 4 to 3 win over the Robins.

Rube Marquard sang "Maybe I ain't so good, but I can beat you" and the Braves took their third straight from the Cardinals, 4 to 0.

Readers of The Register are finding it better and better, day by day.

S. A. Edison's Defeated In First Title Game

"Dutch" Hinrichs, Off Form, Nicked For Nine Runs, Sixteen Timely Bingles In Fray at Poly Field

The Angelus team of Los Angeles today held a one-game lead in the "two-out-of-three" series for the Southern California Edison league championship following its 9 to 6 victory over the Santa Ana Edison company team at Poly field here last Saturday afternoon.

The second game will be played next Saturday at Los Angeles. If Santa Ana wins, the third and deciding fray will be played here August 18.

While the breaks of the game went against the local electricians it was the hard and timely hitting of the Angelus nine that spelled defeat for "Tough" Tyrell's cohorts Saturday.

Big "Dutch" Hinrichs was not where near his usual hurling form and the Angelus swatsmen hammered him for a total of sixteen bingles, many of which came with men on bases.

Hinrichs himself was the victim of the toughest break against the Santa Ana team. With the visitors two runs ahead, two down in the last of the ninth, and with Tyrell on first, Hinrichs came to bat.

Hinrichs usually hits left handed but he realized the only chance for a Santa Ana win would be for him to slam one over the close-in left field barrier. So he batted right handed.

Hinrichs' Drive Caught.

With the count two and two Hinrichs connected squarely for the hardest hit ball of the afternoon. But the sphere sailed to center instead of left field, and Cogswell, his back against the deep center field fence, caught the drive. Had the ball gone to left field it easily would have been a home run and would have tied the count.

After the Angelus aggregation had scored in the first round, the locals came back with four tallies in its half.

Raney singled to center. Arambel fanned. Walters was safe on Casey's error and Cutting got a life when Shoemaker missed his pop fly. Tyrell forced Raney at the plate, Purcell to Rutea. Hinrichs tripled to left center scoring Walters, Cutting and Tyrell. Benedict was safe on Purcell's muff. Hinrichs scoring, but Benedict was flagged stealing.

Home Run Ties Count.

The visitors tallied a couple more in the second and Burger's home run to left tied the score in the third.

"Benny" Benedict homed in the last of the fourth, again putting

SPORTS of all SORTS

In their desire to get into print professional athletes, especially boxers, wrestlers and their managers have a tendency to twist facts and overlook the truth.

It is apparent in some publicity that has been sent out recently in the interest of Nat Pendleton, "Olympic champion" wrestler, that the memory of either Pendleton or his managers does not extend back as far as 1920 and they apparently have forgotten the last Olympic games in Antwerp.

Claiming that none of the professional wrestlers would give him a chance, Pendleton recently announced that he was going to turn boxer and he quoted a flock of reasons why he could accomplish the switch over.

On a flashy poster, Pendleton is held up as the world's intercollegiate and Olympic champion wrestler and as "America's representative" and winner of the world's wrestling championship at the Olympic games, Antwerp, 1920.

Referring to the official record book of the Olympic games as compiled and certified to by the International Olympic Association, the following can be found under "Wrestling Catch-as-Catch-Can Style."

"Heavyweight class: Roth (Switzerland) won; Pendleton (United States) second; Meyer (United States) and Nisson (Sweden) tied for third."

This is rather conclusive that

Under a caption—"Challenge!" the advertising matter also says: "Nat Pendleton guarantees to overpower Jack Dempsey in a bare-hand rough and tumble match in less than ten minutes. Dempsey is invited to step on the mat at any of Pendleton's public appearances. If Pendleton fails he agrees to pay Dempsey the total receipts of the house."

Dempsey, perhaps, will get a kick out of his challenge. The receipts at a wrestling match under the present conditions in New York would not be enough to pay Dempsey for the tape on his hands.

Another entry on the board announces that Pendleton pledges himself "on my honor as an American to fight over and always against dishonest influences in professional athletes."

Good sportsmanship should prompt him to take that "Olympic champion" out of his list of titles.

Anyone who thinks that Jack Dempsey would be a "sucker" in a rough and tumble match should have seen the champion in the ring with Tom Gibbons. It was the closest thing to a barroom fight that has been seen since bars got the K. O.

EVENING SALUTATION

Think not life's burden thou dost bear alone.
No sorrow thine but there its keenest dart
Lies in the depths of One most sacred Heart.
—B. Alphonse Rodriguez.

OIL ON THE BEACHES

Oil washed upon the beaches of Southern California is becoming a first class nuisance.

When one gets a bit of soft oil between his toes, while in bathing, it's a joke. When hundreds of persons have clothing damaged by oil, it's beyond a joke; it's costing money.

We are told that the oil comes from leaky tankers. Then, again, we hear that it drifts out of unguarded sump-holes in the Huntington Beach lowlands.

Neither report may be true. We are not pretending to say whence it comes, but we do know that it is coming in increasing quantities all along the southern shore.

Another thing of which we are certain, is that it is the plain duty of the beach resorts to enter into a combination to get at the bottom of the trouble, and put a stop to it. If tankers are leaky, if sump holes are allowed to flow into tide water, if any other condition exists that can be reached by legislation, let's get busy.

THE NEEDS OF EMPIRE

"One of the tasks of the coming imperial conference will be the moving of populations to suit the needs of the empire and finding employment for our growing populations."

Stanley Baldwin, British prime minister, thus directs British public opinion to the matter of the control, or at least the influencing, of emigration from the British Isles, and his words are reminiscent of the lament of pre-war Germany, that the Germans who left the empire to seek new homes overseas contributed to the strength of rival nations.

These last months have seen a marked increase in the number of British seeking admittance to the United States, in spite of the fact that both Canada and the Australasian dominions will welcome every newcomer of sound British stock they can get. The home government, if only because it desires to keep the other members of the empire in good humor, may be depended on to co-operate with them in every possible way in the effort to build up the Anglo-Saxon element in their populations and thus strengthen the bonds of race as well as of political relationship.

Great Britain is glad to see her children go to this country, if only because of the closer understanding thus created. She would rather see them in Canada, Australasia and South Africa, and apparently means to do what she can in that direction.

Any man whose dealings are always on the level is likely to find his business prosperity on the upgrade.

THE CONVICT SHIP

The good ship Success, built in 1790, in British India, carried spices, teas, ivory and jewels over the seven seas. After 12 years of this proud life, she was chartered by the British government to transport to Australia the overflow from English jails. In 1857 the prison ship system was abandoned because of its cruelty. In 1885 the Success was scuttled and lay under water in Sydney harbor for five years. She was raised by American money and enterprise, and has since been visiting American harbors, exhibited as an example of ancient prison systems.

As a first-hand lesson in the cruelties of history, she is remarkable. The dark prison cells, the original instruments of torture are all there.

The visitor taken about her finds himself horrified at the trifling offenses for which prisoners were sentenced to seven or more years. But, if he knows anything of modern prisons, he realizes that except in that one matter of length of time, there has been very little gain in the last century and a quarter. The flogging frames, the iron straight jacket, the iron maiden, the cat-o-nine-tails, the branding irons are sufficiently horrible. Yet it is only within this last year that one of our states has abolished flogging for criminals, nor is it the last one. The cells must have been dreadful, yet every criminal got his "air" on deck of one hour a day, his bath, at intervals, in the tank of salt water. Many a modern jail is less humane than that.

Mawkish sentiment about criminals who have used their powers always against society is almost more despicable than cruelty. But there is certainly a middle ground. The criminal must be confined, because he is dangerous abroad. His place of confinement ought to be without luxury or much comfort. But human beings under the care of society are entitled to air, cleanliness, wholesome food and decent environment.

When society allows itself to fall short of these requirements, society itself is criminal.

RUHR ECONOMICS

While discussion about the Ruhr goes on in diplomatic circles in England, France and Belgium, the simple fact remains that without economic peace and co-operation there can be very little peace of any other sort. Germany has coal and France has iron and each nation needs a share of the other's product to conduct its manufacturing.

In the United States economic peace and prosperity are promoted by the fact that a product from any one section is available to all the others. Pennsylvania has coal, Michigan has ore, the South has cotton, the North has power to run the country's machinery, and so on. All are members of the same Union and so are mutually friendly and helpful.

Less diplomacy and statesmanship and more economic vision would help the Ruhr situation considerably.

COAL AND STEEL SITUATION

There is much talk of economies these days, and like all good things, the subject of economies is being befogged with words and phrases. The ordinary citizen is sometimes enraptured with the phrases, sometimes bewildered, and sometimes not a little vexed that when he asks for bread in the shape of better markets or lower taxes or higher wages, what he gets is not even a good hard stone with building possibilities, but merely a bubble blown of words.

One of the things the ordinary citizen does not understand is this steel proposition.

Last winter when there were coal troubles was told that it was because the coal mines were over-capacitated. There were too many miners and too many mines, and neither operators nor laborers got a full year's income out of them.

This summer he is told that the reason the remaining steel companies cannot put their mills on the threeshift, eight-hour basis instead of the old two-shift, twelve-hour basis, is that there are not enough laborers in the country for the third shift.

If highly skilled labor were demanded by the steel industry, it would be understandable. But what the steel men ask is just plain immigrants.

It may not be possible to make a simple shift of coal men to steel mills. Men in America cannot—in theory—be moved about like chess pawns. But to the ordinary man talking things over with his neighbor it looks as if it ought to be possible to make some adjustment along the labor line without letting down the immigration bars.

Is Vollmer Promoted?

Fresno Republican.

The career of Police Chief Vollmer of Berkeley and now of Los Angeles cannot be called "meteoric," but it has been at least spectacular. We cannot be sure that his promotion to be the constabulary head of the largest city on the Pacific coast is a happy one for him. In reaching the summit, he may topple over.

A quarter of a century ago, Vollmer was a letter carrier in the city of Berkeley. Doubtless he was a good letter carrier. But he desired to be something more, and trained himself for it. He became a policeman, a police chief. And because he displayed intelligence and understanding, and because he studied and made known that he understood some of the chief psychological and penal problems that were worrying police departments all over the United States, he got notice. And he has continued, for 20 years, to be chief in Berkeley.

After all, this has been an easy berth. Being a good chief, in Berkeley, he's meant that he has held his job. He has had none of the intrigues of cabals of criminals to deal with. He has had few "sections" against him, and he has had the understanding support of virtually all the population that pays any attention to public affairs.

What will the city of Los Angeles do with a man like this?

In the first place, will they not either suspect him or expect too much of him?

Will he not run afoul of social problems that have never been presented to him in Berkeley except perhaps theoretically?

In Berkeley he has virtually never had to pay attention to whether he had the "confidence" of the mayor or of anyone else. He had it without asking for it.

In Los Angeles, if the Chief of Police seeks to carry out the orders of the mayor, and the results are not politically satisfactory, the mayor may discover at once that he has lost his "confidence" in the chief.

Being chief of police in Los Angeles may be a great opportunity for usefulness. And again, it may be a graceful retirement from public life.

Farrand Good Leader

Riverside Enterprise.

The legislative agricultural committee of California, of which R. N. Wilson, former farm advisor of Riverside county is secretary, has made an excellent choice in electing George E. Farrand, leading authority on the legal phases of growers' cooperative marketing associations, as its president. He has been one of its executive committee members and close to its program, which has been most important in California legislation.

Farrand has specialized in growers' marketing problems for the past dozen years. He has been chief counsel for the California Fruit Growers Exchange for a number of years and consulting attorney for many of the other leading co-operative organizations of the west. He has been of great value in advising growers in such a way that they may accomplish their laudable purposes in marketing their own products in a legal manner and yet secure the advantage of working together. This has been largely accomplished by the means of non-profit organizations. He has also been close to many important legislative matters affecting the agricultural interests of California.

When farmers are as constructive and sane in the handling of legislative programs as the legislative committee of the California agriculturists, there need be no fear of populist dreams carrying them away into wild realms of political fantasies. When they have such sound leadership as that of George E. Farrand, they may rest assured that they will not have to depend upon loud mouthed political demagogues and orators, whose knowledge of the farmer and his problems is very small, as a rule.

Our Trade With China

San Francisco Chronicle.

Foreign trade means domestic employment in working our own or imported materials into articles for export. It is most effectively promoted by American firms resident in foreign countries, who naturally order from their home country. To promote such trade the British government exempts from taxation British corporations doing their actual business in China and also British subjects resident in China from personal income taxes.

Taxation in all countries is now so severe that tax exemption for British competitors is a real discrimination against Americans. Congress has given some relief, but apparently not enough. What is asked is entire equality in respect to taxation by the home government with competitors of any other nation.

It is fair and in the public interest should be granted. San Francisco, and indeed the entire Coast, is especially concerned. The rate of our expansion in industry with payrolls depends on the rapidity with which we can extend trade with countries bordering on the Pacific, of which China is by far the most important. Our national and local interests demand that the Nation do all that any other countries do to encourage our nationals to engage in this distribution of whatever we produce at home by American labor.

Belleau Wood Memorial

Stockton Independent.

Belleau Wood has now been dedicated as an American war memorial. Saved by patriotic Americans and friendly French citizens from the commercial project which would have converted it into the private grounds of a tourist hotel, this bit of earth is now held sacred to the memory of the doughboys who lost their lives there.

Belleau Wood comprises about 150 acres of ground near Chateau Thierry. General Pershing has called it the "Gettysburg of the World War" because so many American marines and soldiers made the supreme sacrifice for their country there. In honor of many undiscovered bodies believed to lie there a group of marines from the U. S. S. Pittsburgh fired a volley while American and French dignitaries, mothers and representatives of patriotic organizations paid tribute to the heroes of Stars and Stripes to fly over the wood instead of the Tricolor.

It will be a fine thing if this memorial and every other memorial of the World War can somehow be made to serve the ends of peace, by reminding plain citizens and those in authority of the terrible waste and destruction of war.

Where a Dollar Buys Enough

Value of Optimism

Long Beach Press.

A Nebraska newspaper, the York Republican, editorially commends to the people of its section the practice of Californians in always speaking well of their state. If they cannot speak well of it, they maintain a discreet silence," say the Nebraska writer. "We have not learned to do that. One does not walk far on his rounds to hear men wailing calamity and bemoaning their state. That benefits nobody, and spreads a wave of evil-propaganda which other people catch and magnify."

The Nebraska editor is preaching good doctrine. There are two forms of contagion, good and bad. The most virulent diseases seem to spread most easily. The pessimistic cry is echoed until it casts a mesmerism over all but those who are awake to its falsity.

Nebraska is one of the greatest states in the Union. Its soil is not less rich, its resources are not less valuable because of some passing fear. Conditions are not remedied by destructive criticism. They can be improved by unity of thought and purpose along right lines.

It has been said that Californians are optimists because they cannot help it. However, there are times when losses come to the farmers and fruit growers of this state, as to agriculturists of other portions of America. The welfare of California producers has been notably advanced by their own combined efforts. Instead of despairing when things go wrong, they have banded together for mutual protection; and they are reaping the benefits. The fruit industry has been stabilized. Some seasons are better than others, but the average is highly satisfactory. It has been made so by co-operation, by intelligent union of forces. The time might have been spent in criticism, and nothing would have been gained.

Optimism pays because it keeps one's mind clear and keen. Worry weakens mental and physical vitality, and casts gloom not only over the worrier, but over those with whom he comes in contact. It has fear as its basis; and if the man who worries should be openly accused of cowardice he might arouse himself to see himself as others see him. We would speedily apply the remedy.

The contagion of fear enervates and kills. The contagion of hope and courage builds and strengthens.

Californians have learned the lesson. All the world will be happier when the policy of good cheer is more general.

Worth While Verse

THE OLYMPIC MOUNTAINS

Enamored architect of airy rhyme,
Built as thou wilt; heed not what each man says;
Good souls, but innocent of dreamers' ways,
Will come, and marvel why thou wastest time;
Others beholding how thy turrets climb
Twixt theirs and heaven, will hate thee all thy days;
But most beware of those who come to praise.

O Wondersmith, O worker in sublime
And heaven-sent dreams, let art be all in all;
Built as thou wilt, and as thy light is given.
Then, if at last the airy structure fall,
Dissolve, and vanish—take thyself in shame,
They fail, and they alone, who have not striven.

—By T. B. Aldrich.

Borrowing Eggs

Fresno Republican

When President Harding told the Canadians that the people of the United States regarded them as neighbors with whom we were sufficiently friendly to borrow a couple of eggs from, he expressed precisely the sentiments of the American people.

He uttered this homely truth on the western outpost of the Dominion, but it was to Canada he was talking. This utterance made a deep impression on our neighbors and will probably echo down through the years.

For more than one hundred years the United States and Canada have been on terms of friendliness without parallel anywhere else in the world. We have come to regard Canada as a part of ourselves in everything except government, and the actions of Canada have assured us that the same feeling exists there. But President Harding was the first American executive to step over into our neighbor's yard and assure him personally of our friendship for him. And this one little act, simple in itself, will probably keep cemented our friendship for another hundred years.

How strange it must seem to the troubled nations of Europe to see two great nations facing each other along a front of nearly three thousand miles and not a single soldier along that border? What a wonderful thing it would be for humanity if the same spirit of friendliness could exist among the nations of Europe.

The visit of President Harding to Vancouver was not only a triumph for the United States, but was a personal triumph for the President himself, because, according to the Vancouver Sun, he was not the man Canada expected. Led to believe from press reports that President Harding was a figurehead, the Sun respectfully suggests that the people of the United States get acquainted with their President.

The comment of the Vancouver Sun on the visit of President Harding is exceedingly interesting and is printed herewith:

"America's President created a very favorable impression with the Canadians. There is no question about it. For reasons of heritage and for sentimental reasons Canada will always be part of the British empire, but that should not prevent Canadians from seeking full advantage of the fact that the North American continent forms a single commercial trading unit and that Americas are our good friends and neighbors. The man who stepped ashore at Vancouver and in twelve hours won the people of Canada was hardly the man Canada expected. From United States press reports, Canadians had been led to believe that the President was simply a figurehead placed in office through political compromise. Our unsolicited advice to those Americans who have any such ideas is that they get acquainted with their President.

Free from the influence of Republican pats and Democratic raps and having only good will to ask and receive, the Canadian public was able to take full measure of Warren Harding as a man. The President got through the heads and hearts of Canadians with his homely truth that the best citizen was the man who was a good neighbor and the best neighbor was the one you were friendly enough with to go and borrow a couple of eggs from.

A man with common sense enough to talk that kind of language and whose own life proves that he means what he says is not the man who goes up or down five cents, is not the public demagogue who is one day pandering to class and the next day to mass. He is the kind of a man people look for when things get in a mess. Just now the world is fed up on alleged supermen as leaders and is looking for the Harding type. Canada believes the United States is lucky in Harding."

JOHNNIE of the CIRCUS

and his CUFFY BEAR ~

~ By ARTHUR SCOTT BAILEY

Johnnie's uncle owns the circus, said Farmer Green.

And Johnnie just had to run and yell his delight

WHY JOHNNIE YELLED

"We shan't any of us need to go to the other circus when it comes," the hired man remarked to Farmer Green at the dinner table. "It's pretty handy to have a show right here at home. I s'pose you'll give away those four tickets they handed you for letting 'em stick the posters on the barn."

"Of course anybody that doesn't CARE to go can stay at home," Farmer Green replied, flashing a smile at his wife. "But I know I'm going. And so is Johnnie's mother. We're going anyway, on account of a letter that came this mornin'. It's from Mrs. Green's brother. She hasn't seen nor heard from him for almost twenty years. It seems," said Farmer Green, "it seems he's the Signor Bruno that owns this circus."

Upon learning this news Johnnie Green jumped right up from the table and yelled.

"And then he stopped suddenly. A puzzled look came over his freckled face.

"But—but, Ma!" he exclaimed. "I—I didn't know you were a European. It says on the horse barn—"

"It only says the CIRCUS is European; it doesn't say a word about your ma," the hired man pointed out wisely.

"But I never knew your name was Bruno," Johnnie told his mother.

"It wasn't!" cried Mrs. Green somewhat indignantly. "It was Brown. And I must say I don't see why that wasn't a good enough name for my brother Jim."

"Business reasons!" said the hired man, nodding his head. He quite an air of the world, sometimes. But then, he had traveled. Once he went to the state fair, over a hundred miles away. Farmer Green's left eyelid, which was nearest the hired man, now fluttered oddly.

"Men often change their names for business reasons," he agreed. "I used to know a fellow that everybody called Bill Smith. Bill moved out west and got into some trouble over a horse. And they say that after that he changed his name to—"

"My brother Jim never changed his name for any such reason as that!" Mrs. Green interrupted. Her face had suddenly grown red. "Of course not! Of course not!" Farmer Green assured her. "Probably he hasn't really changed it except on the circus posters. I noticed he signed his letter James Brown. We'll ask him about it when we see him."

"Ask his wife," the hired man suggested helpfully. "Has he got a wife?"

"He says in the letter that he was married eleven years ago," Farmer Green explained. "His wife travels with him."

"Maybe she's a European," the hired man ventured.

"It don't think so," said Mrs. Green. "When he married her her name was Mary Jane Higgins."

"That don't sound foreign," the hired man observed.

"Well, I should hope not!" Mrs. Green exclaimed. (Copyright 1923, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York)
